YOUTH IS HELD IN FRANK MURDER

Police Say Spectacles Found Near Body His

VAGUE ON MOVEMENTS

Nathan Leopold, Millionaire's Son Is Quizzed

By United Press.

CHICAGO, May 30.—Nathan Leopold, son of a millionaire manufacturer, was held for questioning at the state attorney's office today in connection with the kidnaping and murder of 14-year-old Robert Frank.

Leopold, a law student at the University of Chicago, and master of 15 languages admitted losing a pair of glasses similar to those found near the nude body of the slain youth. He was taken into custody after trailing one of the glasses through a large optical firm.

Had Visited Scene of Crime.

Under rigid examination, Leopold told the police he had often visited the scene where young Frank's body was found; that he had been there a few days before the murder; that he owned a typewriter similar to the one with which a ransom letter demanding $100,000 was written; but he denied any knowledge of the crime.

Richard Loeb, son of the late vice president of Sears Roebuck and company, and friend of Leopold, was also held in custody at state attorneys office. He was questioned regarding his movements on the day of the murder.

"We are not satisfied with Loeb's story and will hold him a while longer," an attorney of the state attorneys office said.

Leopold, who is a scholar of extraordinary ability was calm throughout the questioning. He talked freely on many subjects, discussing history, philosophy, and religion with his examiners. He was somewhat vague, however, regarding his movements on the day of the kidnaping, authorities said.

Attended Same School.

The ransom letter, which was couched in flawless English and grammatically correct in every detail, was shown Leopold.

"Could you write as good a letter as this?" he was asked.

"Yes, I could easily duplicate it, if I couldn't write a better one," he said. "I've written many articles on birds and nature."

It was at this point that Leopold admitted ownership of a typewriter like the one with which the ransom letter was written.

Leopold said he knew the Frank family only by reputation and had never met the slain youth. He said he attended the Harvard school before entering the university.

It was the Harvard school which young Frank was attending.

SAYS U. S. MUST LEARN BY WAR

Pershing Says Otherwise Memorial Day Hypocrisy

CAMP MERRITT, N. J., May 30.—Unless the United States leads the lessons of the last war and prepares its men for instant military duty in the future memorial day sentiments will be "insincere" and a "meaningless sham," General John J. Pershing said in an address dedicating a monument here today.

"Shall we profit by the lesson of all our wars, lessons most vividly presented during the World war? Or shall we continue to indulge in the false hope and vain disillusion and like responsible parents leave our children untaught and untrained to meet the different problems which have proved so costly to us in precious lives and staggering indebtedness?"

"If we are not to heed these lessons, if we are not to realize the dangers through which we have so recently passed, we are not to take the different problems which have proved so costly to us in precious lives and staggering indebtedness."

SABINE DISTRICT LINE RATE IS ASSESSED

Rates at intermediate points not affected. Effective five days after publication by carriers.

Lynch Davidson At Elks Theater Tonight To Relate Program

Governor Candidate Brings Message of More 'Business in Government, Less Government in Business'

Lynch Davidson, object of attacks from seven gubernatorial candidates in the 1925 Texas campaign, arrived in Port Arthur at noon today, overland from Beaumont, under the escort of a party of Port Arthur citizens.

Davidson, of "more business in government and less government in business" fame, brings his message of economy in Texas governmental affairs to Port Arthur with an address tonight at the Elks theater. The former lieutenant governor spoke to a large crowd in Stark park at Orange last night, and his engagement in this city tonight is the second of his campaign in the southeast reaches of Texas.

Eight in Field.

Lynch Davidson's friends say he is bearing the brunt of mud-slinging almost alone in the present gubernatorial campaign in Texas. With eight candidates for governor actively campaigning the state's political field, the Houston man is being assailed to a more or less degree by seven.

Calculated thus by his enemies in the present political venture as the "lead bound in the race," his candidacy becomes an interesting one; since reports from every section of Texas indicate, say political observers, that the next governor of Texas must defeat Lynch Davidson before he attains that office.

Lynch's personality includes considerable Irish blood, and in the past has been the target of many mud-slinging political attacks made upon him by his opponents, and this points him out as interesting to say the least.

"The blasphemy which is being hurled at me—and by the way, the ugly word mud—has already been passed," he said upon his arrival here. "I will be adequately taken care of at the proper time. But I have watched so many mud-slinging political campaigns in Texas that I have come to realize definitely that during the progress of a campaign is no time to take notice of personal assaults made upon one. What the people of Texas are interested in right now is their government. That's what I'm telling them about, and showing them how one who has been trained in the economies of business can clip $10,000,000 from their overburdened tax." (Turn to Page 2, Column 4.)

Preparing Trenches For Sham Battle

Trenches in exact reproduction of those in France, parapets with sand bags and protected from enemy attack by barbed wire entanglements, are being dug on the Pleasure Pier today by National Guardsmen here in preparation for the sham battle of the pier next Wednesday night.

Explosion of mines in "no man's land," hundreds of flares shot into the air over the battle ground where guardsmen of company and the headquarters and service company will be fighting with machine guns, rifles, trench mortars and bayonets, are among the features planned to give the battle all possible realism. Captain A. A. Nicholson, commanding company D, 11th engineers, said today.

DEATH RAY TO GO TO ENGLAND

Company to Exploit Mysterious War Beam

PARIS, May 30.—England gets the "death ray." A contract drawn up today starts a company capitalized at 350,000 pounds sterling to promote experiments such as those from which Grindell Mathews evolved his diabolical beam which may revolutionize warfare.

A. H. Cayley, a London millionaire, who supplied clothing to the British army in wartime, heads the new company and the British government is to be given an option on whatever wonders are developed. Mathews retains a 50 per cent interest in the death ray.

"This ends the war of nations over possession of the secret of the ray, also injunction proceedings against the inventor."

M. Boyer, Mathews' French partner, is to receive a 50 per cent interest in whatever the inventor releases.

INSURANCE FIRM IN COUNTY COURT

Port Arthur Man Defendant In Novel Case

INJURED AT REFINERY

Seeks 'Full Recovery' Between June 30-July 30

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, Texas, May 30.—Suit to force P. O. DeVries of Port Arthur to undergo an operation was filed in county court at law Friday morning by the Travelers' Insurance company with whom the defendant was injured.

DeVries was injured at the Gulf refinery on March 26. The plaintiffs allege he is entitled to an operation and ask that he undergo one in order that he may have a full and complete recovery between June 30 and July 30.

A Port Arthur surgeon is delegated to perform the operation at any date on which he and DeVries can agree and at any hospital they decide on.

10 LIONS-AMONG 14 RETAILERS AT MEET

Ten lions were among the 14 delegates from Port Arthur who attended the state convention of Retail Merchants Associations held recently in Trinity, according to reports made the local club today noon at Plaza hotel, when members of the organization met in regular weekly session.

"One Rotarian was along," George Carter said, while three other retailers were in the crowd who were not members of any circle club.

DATE OF KLAN SHOW JUNE 23

Rehearsals to Get Underway Monday Night

Rehearsals for the Port Arthur Ku Klux Klan show, "The Awakening," starts full-blown Monday night, Jimmy Hull, producer, wired today from Wichita, Kansas, with a message that he will arrive in Port Arthur Saturday.

Definite date for opening the show in the Elks theater, has been set for June 23, and it is planned to continue the run for an indefinite number of nights, depending upon the ticket sales. At Beaumont, where Hull presented "The Awakening," recently, hundreds were turned from the theater each night, and on the final night of the show's run there, the largest crowd of any previous night was unable to get into the theater.

Not less than 320 people will be in the cast of "The Awakening," which is presented in Port Arthur, this number being an increase over the cast lined up for the Beaumont show. Hull is returning to Port Arthur from Chicago, where he added new scenery and costumes to his equipment for "The Awakening."

FOREIGN WARS VETERANS ELECT

Major Risdon of Houston Is Named Head

By United Press.

HOUSTON, May 30.—Major A. M. Risdon, commander of the Houston Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars was elected department commander for Texas and Louisiana at the close of the opening of the three-day department convention here yesterday.

Other officers elected were Dan F. Connor, San Antonio, senior vice commander; A. J. Rich, Goose Creek, junior vice commander; Rev. M. S. Giering, San Antonio, chaplain.

Frank G. Harmon, Dallas, past department commander, was elected a member of the national council for a five-year term. Dallas was selected as the 1925 convention site.

LIONS OBSERVE

MEMORIAL DAY

Members of the Port Arthur Lions club indulged in a lengthy musical program in fitting commemoration of Memorial Day today noon during their regular weekly session at Plaza hotel.

During the meeting, Miss Ruby Smith, who was featured as a soloist, in "The Awakening" presented by the Beaumont Klan recently, sang two selections.

There's Enough of Wars

AN EDITORIAL

DEATH, the Final Conqueror, is rapidly thinning the ranks of the Boys in Blue and the Boys in Gray. A few more years the last of the Civil war veterans will have joined their comrades on "fame's eternal camping ground."

Memorial Day originated in honor of the heroes who made the supreme sacrifice in the Civil war. It has taken on a wider significance, and includes our departed heroes of the Spanish-American war and World war.

In Port Arthur bands will play, flags fly, flowers be strewn on graves.

But if the dead could speak, they would rise in their millions and plead for an end to all wars. Peace is the soldiers' goal.

All honor to the heroic men of battle. But in honoring them, let all of us remember that we are in the presence of tragedy.

Let Memorial Day stimulate us to work for lasting peace—peace with honor, fight, if we must, to preserve it—rather than the day spreading militaristic sentiment and false glory that can only help perpetuate the Great Illusion—war and all its misery.

Today, too, is poppy day in Port Arthur. It is a day of sorrow for many—and yet it is a day to rejoice that we have been spared our national sanctity, made possible by those warriors living and those in eternal sleep amid the poppy fields of Flanders.

They have died—we have lived, though many bear the scars. Wear a poppy today—it's not too late—in tribute to the living and the departed. The little they cost will help to make some disabled veteran happier by bringing comforts and attention he otherwise must be without.

It is his day, too—and yours!

MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES AT 5

Invocation By Rev. Davis; Address By Rev. Rodgers

Memorial Day observance here began early this morning with the erection at Fifth and Procter of a decorated booth used as headquarters for the sale by the Legion auxiliary of poppies.

A special committee from the auxiliary headed by Mrs. J. K. Darlen is directing the poppy sales. Proceeds will go to the national fund for disabled veterans in which 40 states are participating.

All banks, the federal building and the city hall offices are closed. This afternoon at 5 o'clock all establishments, members of the Retail Merchants association will close for the Memorial day exercise program.

The band of the 11th Engineers will begin the proceedings with appropriate selections. Invocation will be by the Rev. T. A. Davis, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. L. G. Swanson will follow next on the program with a solo.

Dunn Master of Ceremonies

The Memorial Day address is to be delivered by Dr. C. W. Rodgers, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, a Legionnaire himself and a former army chaplain.

A solo by Mrs. C. G. Hall and "America" to be sung by the audience and led by A. M. Culppepper, accompanied by the band, will conclude the program. The benediction will be by Rev. Father Gratzen of St. Mary's Catholic church. The "Star Spangled Banner" will then be played by the band.

J. L. Dunn, Legion post commander will be master of ceremonies. Preparations for a packed house are being made by the Legion arrangement committee.

COOPER SECOND, MURPHY THIRD

Victor Relieved Corum At Deussenberg's Wheel

98.24 MILES AN HOUR

Cooper Loses First Place At Pit, Fails to Regain

By United Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 30.—Joe Boyer won the twelfth international sweepstakes race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway this afternoon.

Furious Drive.

Relieving L. L. Corum in the latter's Duesenberg Special at the 100th lap, Boyer drove the machine in a furious speed battle with earlier Cooper's Studebaker and climbed into first place near the 450-mile mark.

For the next fifty miles Cooper struggled desperately to regain the lead, but a stop at the pits cut down his running time. Boyer's average was 98.24, the fastest race ever run on the track. His time was 5:05:23.21. The previous track record was 5:13:28.33. Cooper's time was 5:06:47.15.

Cooper was only one minute 24 seconds behind Boyer. His average speed was 97.90.

Jimmy Murphy finished third in 5:08:29.30.

Ahead of Track Record

Harry Hartz in a Durant Special finished fourth in 5:10:44.40. His average speed was 96.35.

Bennie Hill, driving a Miller Special was fifth in 5:11:00.07. His average was 96.46.

Pete De Paolo in a Duesenberg was sixth in 5:13:08.55, an average of 94.30.

Corum had driven a great race and pushed up from ninth to third place, before Boyer relieved him.

The race between Boyer and Cooper was the most sensational ever run on the Speedway.

The first five cars finished ahead of the previous track record.

SAILOR WAGE DECISION GIVEN

Court Holds Sailors Deserting Distress Ship Lose

Sailors forfeit their rights to wages when they leave a ship in a "port of distress," Judge W. Lee Estes, in federal court, declared in handing down a decision in the case of L. Hamilton and other sailors against the schooner Stranger.

The schooner Stranger put into Port Arthur several months ago after battling storms in the Gulf of Mexico, and a marine surveyor approved the vessel as seaworthy after repairs had been made. It was found on the coast at the docks at Port Arthur while repairs were underway aboard the schooner.

Another crew was secured and the Stranger put to sea with the 400,000 feet of lumber and other cargo of which was unloaded, and the crew of which was under contract at Port Arthur while repairs were underway aboard the schooner.

Graduates Reserve Seats for Relatives

Reservation of all seats in Franklin school auditorium with the exception of 150 has been made by members of the high school graduating class for their relatives and friends for the commencement program tonight. George M. Sims, superintendent of the city schools said today.

Children cannot be admitted to the auditorium for the graduating exercises, starting promptly at 5 o'clock tonight, the superintendent said, and the reserved seats can be held only by the relatives and friends of the graduates.

The auditorium doors will be opened for the audience at 7:30 o'clock, according to plans made today.

No Former Vets Are In Jail Memorial Day

The spirit of Memorial Day was felt this morning by City Judge A. W. Drees and Fred White, assistant city attorney who came down and opened corporation court despite the legal holiday and the fact all offices at the city hall were closed.

"I wanted to give everybody in jail a chance to come to trial or make bond for I hate to think of keeping anybody behind the bars Memorial Day when they might be able to get out," the court commented.

Attorney White agreed.

No former soldiers were found behind the bars this morning, a check of the prisoners revealed.

PT. ARTHUR AIDS MUSKOGEE DRIVE

Oklahoma City Follows C-C Budget Plan Here

The successful membership drive for the Port Arthur Chamber of Commerce and Shipping which was held here last January has attracted attention outside the state. Latest commendation coming from the Muskogee, Okla., chamber and received here by General Manager Burge. Officials of the Muskogee body, hearing of the success of the Port Arthur membership campaign wrote officials here several months ago for particulars. The request was granted with the sending of copies of The News, and literature and plans used in the local campaign. Today Manager Burge received a letter from Secretary C. C. Lybeck of the Muskogee chamber praising the Port Arthur system. "Our membership drive exceeded our best expectations. We followed the Port Arthur plans specifically and agree success is due to this," the letter to Burge said.

HIGH SENIOR ATTENDS WOODVILLE GRADUATION

235,425 MEALS IN THIRTY YEARS

Wife Says It Is Worth $115,485

By United Press.
NEW YORK, May 30.—In thirty years one farmer's wife has served 235,425 meals, she told a farm magazine which recently sent out a questionnaire on "how much is a woman worth?" Other things the one woman has done include:
"Made 32,190 loaves of bread."
"Baked 5,620 cakes and 7,960 pies."
"Canned 1,550 quarts of fruit."
"Raised 7,091 chickens."
"Churned 3,430 pounds of butter."
"That in 30,481 hours sweeping, washing and scrubbing."
The woman closed her letter with this:
"I estimate the worth of my labor conservatively at $115,485.00, some of which I ever collected. But I still love my husband and children and wouldn't mind starting all over again."

GOING OUT TO NIGHT WITH THAT PIMPLE SHOWING

The boy or girl who has nothing to worry them about the way they look are so much more noticeable when compared to the shrinking and back-watching of the ones who are afraid to make a mistake in the fun because they know how unsightly their skin may look on account of their pimply, blotchy or rough, scaly skin. Their one friend is Black and White Ointment. If they will just use it faithfully, because it will get rid of all those ugly bumps and make their skin soft, smooth and lovely. Then, to keep it that way, be sure to use Black and White Soap when you wash. There are both economically priced in liberal quantities. The 50c size Ointment contains three times as much as the 25c size. All dealers have both the Ointment and the Soap.—Adv.

FINEST ON EARTH SAYS MRS. COILE

Electric Resident Declares That Stella Vitae Was Only Thing That Helped Her.

"I have tried many medicines in my day, and from the way Stella Vitae has helped me I am ready to declare it is the finest tonic for women on earth," said Mrs. Dollie White, living at Elberta, Texas. "For a long time I suffered from a general run-down condition and too much nervousness. This trouble kept me from doing my housework and I was in a constant state of worry. I had no appetite and fell off in weight till I was almost a shadow. Stella Vitae fixed me up fine. I have taken only four bottles but they have made me over into a different person, as far as health and feelings are concerned, and I am never going to be without this grand tonic again as long as I can get it."

Not—Stella Vitae may be obtained from following druggists and is sold upon the positive guarantee that the purchase price will be refunded if it fails to bring relief.—Adv.

56 GRADUATE AT P. A. COLLEGE

Commencement Exercises Thursday

The commencement exercises for the 1936 graduating class of Port Arthur College were held at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at which 56 graduates were presented with diplomas by J. W. Williams, president of the board of trustees. The Rev. C. W. Rodgers, ministers of the First Methodist church delivered the commencement address to the graduates.

The exercises were opened with three songs "To Port Arthur," "Down in Southeast Texas" and "I. A. K. C. Tells You," sung by the school. The benediction was pronounced by the Rev. C. R. Robinson.

A large number of parents and former students attended the exercises as well as the graduates and all of the members of the board of trustees who were in session all day yesterday until the beginning of the commencement exercises. A large number of former students who came to Port Arthur for the banquet which was held last night were in attendance at the commencement exercises.

The motto which was adopted this year by the graduating class is "The key to a successful life is to succeed every day I live."

The class colors are purple and gold and the class flower is the rose.

CHARGES FILED IN HOUSTON WRECK

Sister of Victim Claims Wharton Intoxicated

By United Press.
HOUSTON, May 30.—Charges of driving a car while intoxicated which resulted in the injury to three passengers were filed here late yesterday in justice court against Tom Wharton, son of a wealthy Dallas resident. Miss Lillian Minnis, a sister of Miss Anna Minnis, one of the injured, filed the charges against Wharton.

Wharton is said to be in Port Worth or Waco and his arrest at either place is expected today.

Wharton was the driver of the Cadillac roadster which overturned a short distance out of Houston while en route to Galveston, early Saturday, May 17. With him was Miss Ethel Lake, Miss Anna Minnis and Clifford Reinlander, all of Dallas. Miss Minnis was only slightly injured. Miss Lake is confined in the charity ward of the Baptist hospital here, and Reinlander, wealthy drug store proprietor, is reported to be making slow recovery from injuries to his head and back in a local hospital. Wharton was undrugged.

According to Wharton's story at the time of the accident, he was driving at a speed of 35 miles an hour. Later, he is alleged to have told a friend that he was driving 65 miles an hour.

2 VETS OF GREY TO BIG REUNION

J. L. Camp and J. N. Williams Last in Port Arthur

The thin, gray ranks of those who followed the flag of the Confederacy under the martial leadership of Lee and the administration of Davis will be augmented by two Port Arthur veterans at the annual reunion which convenes at Memphis next week, according to E. H. Blalock, state adjutant and chief of staff, Sons of Confederate Veterans.

The two Port Arthur veterans who will answer "Here" at the calling of the muster roll at Memphis are J. L. Camp and J. N. Williams. These, with Adjutant Blalock and Dr. O. L. Baker of the S. of C. V., leave for the convention next Monday morning.

Mrs. Octavia Wood, 48, To Be Buried in Starks

Mrs. Octavia Wood, 48, died at the family residence, 228 Fourth street, about 7 a. m. today after an illness extending over several days.

The body will be shipped out of Port Arthur over the Kansas City Southern tonight for Starks, Louisiana, under the direction of J. E. Grammer, undertaker, and burial will be made there.

Surviving Mrs. Wood is her husband, W. W. Wood, of this city.

backs every biennium and not allow appropriations one iota."

Lynch Davidson's shrewdness in the conduct of his campaign parallels the success which has accompanied his business career from a small operative to a lumber dealer, whose advertising slogan "It's Certified," and this prompts the candidate to say that his is a "certified" candidacy and that when I am elected your governor will have a certified conduct of the affairs of your state," his friends declare.

Lead at Waco, Report

Recent reports from the Waco democratic convention where assembled those politically wise from every section of Texas placed Lynch Davidson in the race in the gubernatorial race in 1937 counties. The candidate is pro-business for Texas governmental management; prohibition and anti-Klan, and on the last named subject declares when he enters the office of governor he will "consistently with my platform and policy on this subject to terminate all the strife which has been created in Texas to the end that our people may work together in a united whole for a common cause to make this state internally as great as the expanse of her geographical boundaries."

Lynch Davidson usually campaigns in a driver, but in his present trip chose the train "to give Lizzie a rest," as he puts it. Lynch and his driver, however, have traveled about 6,000 miles of the present Texas campaign, upon which fact Lynch comments thus: "And it's still running as smoothly as my campaign, and that's some smoothly."

The interviewer found the "frank of the Texas 1934 campaign" as he has often been referred, one of delightful personality; quick to respond to a situation and fully capable of handling any situation which might arise. Retiree to relate his manifold experiences, the candidate did let it out that his first employment bought 80 cents a week as a sheepherder and that the cotton rows, plough handle, and barnyard milk bucket were as natural in his hands as the economic handles with which he wielded a fight to save the Texas railroad and his million dollars' worth of property and the Oklahoma annual tax returns to the treasury of Texas—and won.

"And yet among the democracy which is being buried at us by the combined salvo of my seven opponents," he added, "is the charge that I know nothing of the trials and tribulations of the laborer and the farmer; why, I speak their language."

"The candidate will be introduced tonight by Mayor Logan, and after his address returns to Houston to resume his campaign at Richmond Saturday afternoon."

Coolidge in Memorial Day Address Demands Participation in World Court

VETS OF 3 WARS HEAR ADDRESS

President Speaks at Arlington Exercises

WASHINGTON, May 30.—President Coolidge today repudiated proposals for American adherence to the world court that depart from the Harding-Hughes plan.

Speaking at the Memorial Day exercises at Arlington National cemetery, the president came out flatly for adherence to the Harding-Hughes plan, the president of the United States to the president of the permanent court of international justice, with the conditions laid down by the late President Harding.

"His suggestion has already had my approval," Mr. Coolidge said. "I should not oppose any other reservations," the president said, "but any material changes which would not probably receive the consent of the many other nations, would be impracticable."

Opposes Pepper Plan

His statement was interpreted as indicating his firm opposition to the plan of Senator Pepper, Pennsylvania, for American entrance into the court which has been reported to the senate by the foreign relations committee.

Standing in the ranks of the old and young veterans of three American wars—the civil, Spanish and world conflict—President Coolidge reverently placed a wreath of flowers on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier before the great Arlington amphitheatre.

"I believe in the maintenance of an army and navy, not for aggression, but for defense," the president said. "Security and order are our most valuable possessions. They are cheap at any price. But I am opposed to every kind of military aggrandizement and to all forms of competitive armaments."

"The ideal would be for nations to become parties to mutual covenants limiting their military establishments and making it obvious that they are not maintained to menace each other. This ideal should be made practical as far as possible."

Running throughout Mr. Coolidge's speech was the theme that just as the individual and the state must make some sacrifices for the common benefit derived from the national government so must a nation sacrifice something for international security.

No Narrow Policy

"Only one conclusion appears to me possible," Mr. Coolidge said.

"We shall not promote our welfare by a narrow and short-sighted policy. We can gain nothing by any destruction of government or society. It is only by surrendering a certain amount of our liberty, only by taking on new duties and assuming new obligations, that we make that progress which we characterize as civilization. We cannot take a step in advance of this kind without assuming certain obligations. Here, again, if we receive anything we must surrender something. We may as well face the question candidly and if we are willing to assume these new duties in exchange for the benefits which would accrue to us, let us say so. If we are not willing, let us say that. We can accomplish nothing by taking a doubtful or ambiguous position."

"We are not going to be able to avoid meeting the world and bearing our part of the burden of the world. We must meet these burdens and overcome them or they will meet us, and overcome us. For my part I desire my country to meet them without evasion and without fear in an upright, downright square, American way."

"While there are those who think we would be exposed to peril by adhering to this court, I am unable to attach great weight to their arguments. Whatever difficulties, whatever perils exist for us in the world will come any way, whether we oppose or support the court. Public Service Not Matter of Hire

"I am one of those who believe we would be safer and that we would be meeting our duties better by support-

FRANKLIN OPENS SUMMER SCHOOL

Formal Opening To Be Monday Morning

Summer academic and physical education schools open at Franklin Monday morning at 8 a. m. with R. A. Collins, principal of Franklin school, in charge of the academic work, and H. A. McGilchrist, director of physical education in the schools, in charge of the other department of the summer school.

Courses will be provided in the academic summer schools for pupils who failed to pass all or part of their work during the season just closing, for others who are older than their school grades and desire to forge ahead before the opening of the 1924-25 season next September, and any students who want to take special work on various studies.

George M. Sims, superintendent of the city schools, said today. For the academic courses offered in the summer school a charge of $1.00 per week will be made each pupil enrolling for work in the sixth and lower grades, and for students taking work in the seventh grade and on up through High school, the charge will be $1.50 each per week, according to Superintendent Sims.

No charge will be made for the boys and girls in the physical education and play ground classes, which will last from 8 a. m. to 2 p. m.

IS ONLY WOMAN TO LIVE IN PARK

Wife of Glacier Caretaker Is City Bred

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 30.—Mrs. CYRUS MCGILL is the only white woman that lives in Glacier National Park throughout the winter, the owner of the Indian Department Hotel. Her husband is caretaker of Many Glacier Hotel, famed to thousands of summer tourists, which is located 55 miles north of the main line of the Great Northern railway. Mrs. McGill is a city-bred girl of the athletic type. She enjoys the winter solitude of the Rocky Mountain wilds and she does not sit in her cabin and sew the long months away, either. When not engaged in fishing through the ice of Lake McDermitt for trout, she is either hiking the white-clad mountain sides on snow shoes or indulging in the thrilling sport of sliding down the steep slopes. She of course is glad when summer comes for it brings thousands of tourists and when that season arrives she naturally is ready to greet this human company. "But it's a grand and glorious life, just the same," she insists.

Health evidently is such a natural part of it that she never even makes any reference to it. She has lived in the Many Glacier region seven winters and as many summers. As for the movie, she never misses them.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Demand for immediate complete house cleaning of the Veterans Bureau was made in the senate Thursday by Senator Oddie, republican, Nevada.

Oddie read letters from scores of veterans, which he contended substantiated his charges that a "ring" dominates the bureau, charged inefficiency in cutting compensation, denying hospitalization and discouraging good employees.

Merritone did my kidney trouble. I tried all kinds of "remedies" but they didn't do me a bit of good. I had about lost faith in anything ever helping me when a friend of mine insisted upon my taking Merritone.

I got a bottle and before I had taken half of it I knew that I soon would be well again. It helped me right from the first dose.

Within ten days the pain in my back had entirely disappeared and I went to my meals really hungry again. I gained weight and strength, sleep like a baby at nights awakening in the morning feeling fresh and ready for my work.

I feel twenty years younger than I did a few months ago and thanks to Merritone I am in better health than I have been in for years.

Merritone is a purely vegetable compound—a natural remedy that acts gently but persistently, cleansing and toning up the entire digestive system, putting your stomach in healthy condition, correcting constipation, irregular action of the kidneys and bladder and enriching the blood. Merritone is for sale in Port Arthur at The Houston Avenue Drug Store, American Pharmacy and The Owl Drug Store.—Adm.

Odds and Ends and Comments on Our Morning Mail

The funniest thing in history is how a pretty woman made a fool of Aristotle, the ancient Greek philosopher, in his old age.

His job was tutor and guardian of Alexander, the Great, who "conquered the world" and died when he was 32.

Lovely woman was Alexander's weakness. He had paused in his career to worship at the shrine of an adventuress.

Chided by Aristotle, Alexander mockingly said: "Such, alas, he cried, as I myself."

Alas! These men, he seems, have never loved.

The philosopher went out, however, Alexander, his sweetheart, she managed to get to him, learned why her lover had abandoned her. Burning for revenge, she set her traps.

Details are somewhat lacking as to what followed. But it wound up with Aristotle at the beach's feet, his wisdom flung to the four winds.

Alexander, watching, soon saw her strap a saddle on Aristotle's back, fasten reins to him, mount and ride about the imperial gardens. Aristotle on all fours as he lumbered along with his precious burden.

When a white-haired philosopher made such a fool of himself, one doesn't wonder at the old boys of our generation whose affections and fancies get them on page one of the newspapers.

Aristotle, when he realized how he had been duped, admitted that youthful Alexander was crazy like a fox when he pursued feminine beauty.

"Love is master of mankind," agreed the aged man of wisdom.

Henry Ford now is selling his cars practically at cost, says the Wall Street Journal. It claims Ford's profits "come from parts sales, freight charges, sale of by-products, interest on bank balances and securities."

We don't know whether this is true. But it's quite possible. Ford's position is unique in business history. Competition in his early days might have kept him awake nights. Now his business is so big and strong that a newcomer tackling it competitively is like a boy after a lion.

Radio already has strongly affected the electric light and power industry. More people stay at home to enjoy radio, which means more use of lights and greater current consumption. We're quoting a speaker at the convention of National Electric Light Association.

Statistical business fortune tellers predict that in five years 15 million American homes will be using electric lights and at least half will be equipped with radio.

Regarding who should pay the cost of broadcasting radio concerns: The electric lighting industry would find it profitable to chip in. Also the telephone companies, which are getting an enormous amount of money from radio—messages from listeners to broadcasters.

The big telephone company will put 150 million dollars worth of additional stock on the market. This will give it a total of about 900 million dollars worth of stock, passing even U. S. Steel and making it the world's leader among corporations in the matter of stock capitalization.

We certainly pay a lot of money to gratify our desire to talk.

Radio is stimulating the business of electric light and telephone companies. It is also a gold mine for the copper, rubber and other industries. Illustrating how one industry creates business for others.

A factory gets a lot of orders. In filling them it generates business for rubber makers of tires, power companies, coal mines, but to mention that machinery keeps wearing out and has to be replaced. Industrially we are as dependent on each other as the tiny fossils which, clustered in millions, make up a coral reef.

If prohibition has reduced crime, the bankers haven't heard about it. Robberies and other crimes against banks have "risen to heights heretofore unknown." So reports J. E. Hanna, manager of the protective department of American Bankers Association.

Forgeries, check alterations and minor thefts are at a rate 45 per cent higher than a year ago. Banks, nevertheless, are easily 1,000 times safer for your money than any other hiding place you can find. That's the primary purpose of banks—safe hiding place.

Safety comes first, interest or profits second.

Texas Rangers will send a "spiced Mustang" to the prince of Wales. The gift is a Texas, a fiery beast worthy of the spurs of Smokey and Cotton.

The prince has become an expert at getting thrown on his head, but he'll probably learn something about horsemanship shortly. The prince's friends from our southwest require more grace on the saddle than stable-bred English men. Riff, maybe he's been practicing for Texas without knowing it.

The superficial area of the earth is 106,040,000 square miles.

An elephant works from the age of 12 to the age of 80.

WHEAT GAMBLING BY FARMERS IS ONE REASON FOR DEPRESSION

A decrease in exports of farm products is announced. In the nine months of the fiscal year ending with March exports of wheat are down 63,000,000 bushels and of corn 65,000,000. There is a reason for it.

All the European countries produced fair grain crops last year, the largest since the world war. Canada produced a great crop of wheat and had a large surplus for sale.

Some day the one crop wheat farms of the northwest will come out of their trance. They gamble in wheat and wheat alone and they have been losing because 36 of the nations of the earth are producing wheat far below the cost of wheat production in the United States.

America produces a large surplus and the surplus fixes the price. In addition to this American wheat growers are forced into fierce competition with the wheat growers of 36 grain producing nations. It is as plain as the nose on a man's face why the American wheat growers are up against it.

JOE AND THE JUDGE

Joseph Silverman is a cheery citizen of Chicago. Joseph Burke is one of the noted judges of Chicago. Joseph Silverman was hauled before Judge Burke charged with striking Mrs. Silverman. Silverman told why. His wife had had her hair bobbed without asking him. She is 32 years old and the husband wouldn't have minded but she got one of those cuts they call the King Tut.

And then the other Joseph, the judge with the Celtic name, enlightened the Joseph who had been charmed with wife beating. The law from the bench declared that it is now one of woman's inalienable rights to vote and surely a person capable of voting must be presumed to be capable of choosing her hair cut. Then the judge slapped a heavy fine on the other Joseph and placed him under a peace bond.

Excellent law, excellent judge, excellent decision: Are all the men and women who are capable of ordering a haircut capable of casting an intelligent ballot?

ITALY SCORES A COMEBACK

Italy has recovered her wealth lost during the war. According to economists $2,000,000,000 was wiped out of the total wealth of Italy by the war and this has virtually been restored in full. Italy had a pre-war wealth under $22,000,000,000. War reduced this to less than $20,000,000,000. Now the total wealth of Italy is placed at $21,250,000,000.

This does not take into consideration the new provinces acquired by Italy in the division of war loot. Italy has foreign investments which amount to $300,000,000. Italy has received each year a larger income from remittance of emigrants.

Now that the American ports have been closed to the sons and daughters of sunny Italy the tide is flowing from Italy to France where there is a shortage of man power and the Italians are given a hearty welcome. They are going to Argentina where a third of the population is Italian and a vast amount of wealth of the South American country is held by the Italians.

Regardless of the pessimists the old world will right itself if given time, recoup its war losses and stability will come to all the nation.

MELLON AND PINCHOT

Governor Pinchot is as mad as a wet adder. He appeared before the Methodist conference, addressed that body, declared that Secretary Andrew W. Mellon had been in the whiskey business for forty years and owned whiskey as late as last March. Then the Methodist Conference applauded Pinchot and later refused to print his attack on Mellon in the minutes of the conference.

Some of the leaders said that it was political and that the conference should not be a political machine. As all the newspapers printed the Pinchot blast why the deletion on the part of the bishops?

Private bankers in New York have been put out by the law-makers. Hereafter a person conducting a private banking business must invest $100,000 of his own funds and place the same in the hands of the secretary of state. No more rich pickings.

Quillen's Paragraphs

We hope Pershing's history will explain just how spurs contributed to the final triumph.

In the old days the supreme court decided the fate of a law; now common indifference does it.

Anybody can be a born leader in a section where followers possess even less sense than he.

The true test of chivalry is changing tires for a lady while wearing white flannel pants.

Nerve specialists never will starve while there are small daughters to practice piano lessons.

Cuss words are never necessary unless an uncouth chap wishes to express his opinion of a lady-killer.

You can't tell. The number of his spare tire doesn't indicate how much he owes the filling station.

Physicians become ill, also; but you never see them making a rush for the operating room.

Savings bank deposits keep on growing, so there are a few people in this country who don't own cars.

They are not really "old folks" until the children begin to quarrel about whose duty it is to keep them next.

Our aristocracy is young yet, and there are few Americans that don't know ham and eggs are affluence.

There is small choice. If you fail, you go to the poorhouse; if you succeed, you are expected to make speeches.

The advisability of passing a car at the curve depends on whether the widow will think the loss covered by insurance.

The only universal language that seems to have much success is a wink.

Thirty minutes of study each day will enable you to talk well on all subjects except those your friends are interested in.

When a few expensive daughters finally break him, he probably feels the relief a pitcher does when a home run at last clears the bases.

The foot-and-mouth disease has invaded some political circles. The mouth is running off and the feet are cold.

The cure is desperate. If somebody doesn't care for the poor Germans quickly, the rich Germans may have it to do.

A. B. Sprout: Can you supply me with that delightful bit from Alice in Wonderland, beginning "You are old, Father William..."

Dear Able: You bet. Here's the bit. Hard to beat, too. "You are old, Father William," the young man said, "But don't you be sensitive, BIL! You're younger, at that, than most of the jokes. They're using in vaudeville."

J. K. Leary: My sister-in-law's third cousin wants to find a gloomy germ, which starts out about all things vanishing and passing? Can you assist her?

Dear Jake: Why not? All things vanish, all things pass. There's naught from cradle to the grave. That can endure, not e'en, alas! One's permanent wave!

A FREIGHT BROKER RENDERS TO THE EXPORTER.

HE POSTS HIM ON FREIGHT RATES. HE SECURES QUOTATIONS AND SPACE ON STEAMERS.

What is the function of a freight broker? Answered by R. R. Driffo, Chicago Trust company financial and international trade writer.

Freight brokers attend to the work of securing steamer space for exportation, or in case of full cargoes, they charter vessels for exporters. The exporter places a great deal of faith in his freight broker, to secure him good, fast accommodations at reasonable rates.

The broker must be constantly in touch with incoming ships which are open to charter for full cargoes and he must have the available space of other ships listed so that he may know where to get space for customers who desire it. This is true for both present and future space.

Whenever space is engaged by a broker, the ship pays him a commission on the freight. Some freight brokers also act as freight forwarders, thus making for a maximum of efficiency. (Copyright 1924 Associated Editors)

BIRDS IN CAPTIVITY
BERLIN, May 30.—Male singing birds do not mind captivity once they are caged. But female songbirds pine and even die without a mate. Professor Fritz Braun, well-known German ornithologist, declares in the "Enschau." Male birds show no sign of damage to their health by their imprisonment and asceticism. On the contrary, they sing much louder. Females, however, seem to suffer much in separate cages.

HIS BROTHER'S WIFE

By RUDY AYRES
OF THE SERVICE

BEGIN HERE TODAY
The marriage of Dolly and Nigel Bretherton proved unhappy. When war is declared, Nigel is glad to enlist. He leaves Dolly in the care of his father, Mr. Bretherton. What did the "how" and the "why" matter, when the all-absorbing fact was accomplished and irreversible?

If she were to die, what did it matter how her death had been brought about?

Dora Fisher was hardly civil to me," Miss Varney sobbed. "She was so rude and off-hand. David, I am so glad you never really liked that girl. At one time I thought you were rather interested in her. I was dreaming that perhaps some day she would ask her to marry you. I could not have borne it. I could never have lived in the house with her—not that she would have wanted me, I suppose," the old lady added sadly.

David colored. He stood looking out of the window into the sunshine. He laughed rather nervously.

CHAPTER LXI
"I marry Dora? Good heavens! What next? Miss Varney looked at his tall figure, definitely.

In her own heart she believed that Dora was quite capable of marrying David, whether he wished it or not, but she wisely refrained from comment.

"Well, she might have been kinder to me, anyway," she objected plaintively. "She must have seen I was in great trouble about Mary. David, do you think she will die?"

No answer. Miss Varney repeated her question kindly.

He spoke then—spoke with such passion that Miss Varney was startled. "She had never believed him capable of much strong emotion; she had always considered him rather cold."

"If she dies, I shall never forgive myself or be happy again. If she dies, it will be the end of everything for me."

"Miss Varney's gentle voice was full of compassion. "Oh, my poor David!"

He dragged his companion together. He looked at her half apologetically. "I'm so sorry, dear. I thought you guessed that—that I—" He could not go on.

Miss Varney fell to weeping afresh. "It would have been the dream of my life. I always thought how wonderfully well suited you were, when I believed that she was poor Nigel's widow. Oh, David, can't we do anything to save her?"

"They have done all they can," From his quiet voice nobody would have guessed how he had been suffering. Miss Varney looked at him wonderingly.

Much as she had loved David, she had never understood him. Would he really feel it so very terribly, she asked herself. If Mary died?

The old lady was waiting in a little private room. Presently someone tapped at the door, and entered. It was one of the nurses.

"You are wanted at once in No. 4 ward."

She looked at David. He caught his breath hard in his throat. His face, was colorless as he arose from the room, followed by Miss Varney.

He told himself that he knew what had happened. Mary was dead, and the whole sunshine of the world was blotted out forever.

It seemed but a flying second before he was back again at her bedside; but he was now afraid to look up. Now he felt that he could not raise his eyes.

"Someone touched his arm. "Speak to her—try to rouse her a little."

She was not dead then! His heart seemed throbbing in his throat. He knelt down beside her, and covered her hands with his own.

"Mary!" There was just the faintest flicker of the white eyelids. David spoke again, more urgently: "Mary!"

And now the lids were slowly lifted, and for a moment her eyes sought his face. The faraway, vague, unseeing look seemed to tremble, and hesitate. Then—just the ghost of a smile appeared about the pallid lips.

"David—dear."

He was not quite sure if she really spoke the last little word of affection, or whether it was his own passionate longing alone that heard it. But with sudden abandon he stooped and kissed her lips.

FOREIGN NATION IGNORING PERRY

To Lay Claim to Territory
There

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—Just because the American flag was hoisted to the North Pole by Commander Robert E. Peary does not mean that this country has been conceded any prior rights to the territory around the pole, according to the United States State Department.

The message stated that the United States has no claim to the territory around the pole, according to the United States State Department.

Amundsen, says officials here, has taken the attitude that Peary's discovery did not establish undiscovered land about the pole as territory of the United States and the explorer will not stake out any land in the name of America.

With this information, the question has arisen of how much territory the north pole technically represents and just how boundaries will be made. Another point being discussed by naval officers, was had beyond the many would conflict its proposed polar flight, whether and hidden beneath ice and snow upon which Peary trod when he raised the American flag at the pole should belong to this country.

It is pointed out Peary did not know whether he was treading over frozen ocean or ice and snow covered land. Anyhow, if Amundsen discovers land in the vicinity of the north pole, can he claim it is the same of some other country, even though Peary should have made claim to the land without actually knowing whether the land existed or not?

The Italian government, says information here, has held Amundsen by two airplanes with which he will attempt his flight to the pole this summer. The first of these two planes, which are being built on a German model by an Italian company at Pisa, is receiving its finishing under the direction of Lieutenant Davidson, an American naval officer. Lieutenant Davidson, it is said, will fly one of the planes to the pole.

The Italian air ministry is also sending a third plane in charge of an Italian crew. This is also being built at Pisa. The first plane will be finished some time this month. It is expected, and will be flown to Norway immediately. The last plane will be finished soon after the first and the flight to the pole is scheduled to begin soon after both planes are ready.

It is understood in Rome, according to information here, that Amundsen has made arrangements similar to that with Italy with British and Norwegian governments. This word from Rome comes on the heels of a report from Russia that that country is contemplating a polar flight in a plane now being built in this country. Where the plane is actually being constructed in America has not been learned.

The Capital Periscope

WASHINGTON, May 30.—On the eve of the presidential convention, politicians are repeating the one axiom of political parties. "No man ever refused the presidency and no man ever will."

The Washington inhabitants understand that better the article, but in the open spaces, the president is regarded sometimes as "the man we voted for." Here in Washington, where he is better known, he is recognized as the most powerful ruler in the world.

It is the office not the man, or rather the man when he has the office.

Not detracting from the democracy of the nation, the White House is as much a palace as the home of any crowned ruler.

At the White House, the President

Slave—And Proud of It!

Slave bracelets are the latest. Judith Anderson is wearing them in her latest show. Hers are set with emeralds and diamonds.

is referred to—usually as "HE." All interest centers in him. There is the "court gossip." Before any one expresses in opinion, he openly or mentally casts a sidelong glance towards the president's status. Millions of people daily speculate in some form or another as to the President's action on this or that matter.

When the president travels he is accompanied by his entourage. There are special railroad cars placed at his disposal. His every desire is thought out in advance. Hotels where he may stop make great efforts to arise to the occasion in offering the president every comfort. When the president enters a city minute preparations are taken to control the crowds. His personal bodyguard of secret service agents is ever on the watch to guard the president's safety.

The presence of no one else is desired is that of the president. When he has agreed to appear, the function in question never starts until he has arrived. And when he approaches, with his retinue, everyone arises and an impressive march is played as he enters. No one sits down until the president is seated. Everyone waits his pleasure.

Interest almost as great as that which exists in the person of the president himself is focused on his wife, the "First lady of the land," and, to a lesser degree, on every member of his household. The wife of the president is the proud owner of the chief executive almost everywhere the latter goes. How she looks, how she smiles, how she wears are of interest to millions, especially women.

Next in interest officially to the president at the White House stands his secretary. He is the liaison officer between the president, the members of the president's cabinet, other officials, the public, and, in fact, the whole outside world. The president's household is the subject of unlimited newspaper copy. The White House cook figures in the publicity. President Coolidge's pet cat "Tige" has become a national figure, as was Mr. Harding's dog.

The president's visitors are a cross-section of the life of the nation. As the nation has grown, so have the dignity and importance of the presidential office. When the United States was small, the president could be and frequently was very democratic. He may still feel that way about it, but he must stay on the pedestal. And when it comes down to cases, the man who is president can't help but enjoy the job. He may complain of his burdens, but no president of the United States has ever resigned. There is nothing in the constitution to prevent a resignation, but it simply "isn't done."

"SHADOW OF EAST"
Mildred Harris has a very complimentary opinion of the literary ability of E. M. Hull, author of "The Sheikh" and also the creator of "The Shadow of the East" and "The William Fox" (the version of which is now playing a five-day engagement at the Peoples theater).

"E. M. Hull is one of the few women writers whose works I really enjoy," said Miss Harris, who plays the lead in "The Shadow of the East." Carolyn Wells and Mary Roberts Rinehart are the others. Her partiality for E. M. Hull is probably due to her fascination for the Orient, of which she writes so intelligently. "Miss Hull knows the East—its mystery, its colorful surroundings and its interesting people. She has a wonderfully inventive mind which always supplies a fascinating plot and the success of her novels is probably due to her ability to grip a reader and hold him or her tensely everywhere every page. Her "The Sheikh" was a sensation appealing particularly to women and "The Shadow of the East" is no less successful and entertaining.

By the way, the fact of the colorful setting and its story, "The Shadow of the East," makes a wonderful motion picture. I do not know when I have entered into the spirit of a picture so thoroughly as I did in playing the role of Gillian. Frank Mayo was typically the type of Horace Green, the adventurer and it was just natural to ride along on the wave of one's imagination after having read the book.

THREE CHANGES IN NAME OF O'BRIEN
REARMOYNT, Texas, May 30.—Records filed in the court house here show that the O'Brien family has changed the spelling of their name three times in the last three generations. The grandfather of the present judge of the 58th district court spelled his name George Bryan, eliminating the O. The father of the present judge decided to use the O, but spelled his name "O'Bryan." He then decided that the real old Irish spelling should be used with the result that the present Judge George C. O'Brien of the 58th district court uses the original spelling.

Robertson Niece Is Killed in Cyclone

Judge St. C. Robertson of Port Arthur received notification yesterday afternoon that his niece, Jane Moore Robertson, daughter of E. E. Robertson of Collins, Miss., was killed Monday night in the storm which swept that section of the state. Mrs. Robertson, wife of E. E. Robertson, was reported to have been seriously injured. A girl friend of Judge Robertson's niece was in the Robertson home at the time the storm hit it and he reported to have been killed. Judge Robertson presumes that his brother was not in the home at the time.

Only eight civil officers of the United States have been impeached and tried before the senate, and only two of them have been convicted.

Carpentier and Gibbons Insist Dempsey Didn't Hurt Them Most

Tom Says Champ Only Landed Once

Frenchman Recalls Tape Lewis Gave Him in 1912 As Being Hardest in His Ring Career; Jack's Blows "Painful"

By JOE WILLIAMS

CHICAGO, Ind., May 30.—On a number of vital matters, the world is singularly agreed. One of these is that soap assiduously applied will cleanse sooty cars. Another is that Jack Dempsey of fisticuffian note swings a nasty mitten. Indeed the belief is widespread that if Mr. Dempsey hits you, hard and often enough, your interest in the affairs of the world will cease abruptly.

Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul and Georges Carpentier of the French boulevard, light heavyweights, training here for their May battle, have both met the heavy-champion. Gibbons stood up front of the Dempsey attack for rounds. Carpentier called for his man in the fourth round.

Just what effect the Dempsey punches had on these two light heavyweights forms an important consideration in connection with the fight tomorrow. Camp gossip has it that Gibbons was in such bad shape after the fight in Montana last summer that he couldn't draw on a glove.

This is said to explain why he went immediately into Vanderbilt at a moderate stipend instead of returning east to capitalize his showing by taking a worthwhile opponent.

Dempsey's body wallopers are supposed to have torn the Frenchman up badly as to render him ineffective against any fairly stiff puncher. This is offered in explanation of his complete collapse against Battling Siki.

Talking with Gibbons about hard punches I naturally expected an exclamation on the ferocity of the champion's back.

"Dempsey hit me hard at Shelby," he stated the Irishman. "He landed once squarely. That was the first round."

"I was warming up, studying with other," Dempsey shot a right. "I was in such a condition that I landed my head blow work and on my chin. He ducked into it. The glove landed on my forehead. It was painful. I felt it in the ring but it only shook me up. It wasn't a groggy punch."

"Old Back Cruise hit me the hardest punch I ever caught. That was at Hudson, W. Va. in 1914. I used to keep my chin covered with my left shoulder raised high. Cruise got one over in the second round. A straight right. I didn't go down but I was hurt on my feet. It was the only time I ever lost consciousness in the ring. It was the last time I was knocked wobbly."

Carpentier surprised me, too. The Frenchman, talking about crushing punches as "painful," Dempsey's punches as "painful."

Carpentier does not remember being knocked out, has no recollection of feeling the fatal blow and what luck—has no memory of it.

You ask who hit me hardest? Well, neither Dempsey, he answered, looking flustered. "It was another fellow, Willie Lewis, a welterweight. Lewis fought me in 1912. The seventh round he hit me with a right-hand punch that lifted me in the air. I fell flat on my face. I counted of seven, got up and hit again by another right. I awoke this time and the bell rang. My jaws ached for weeks."

FOUR FIGHTERS READY

CHICAGO, Ind., May 30.—A full and a gallon or so of ice cream, a long walk and a few days of rest—these are the day before the battle programs of Tommy Gibbons and Georges Carpentier.

They are in an ancient gold-bound book made a part of his regular conditioning program. Likewise they have his ice cream and consume quantities of it.

Carpentier has made walking part of his training program and spends much of his time carrying the book and the ice cream to the beach of Lake Michigan. Carrying is like soothing syrup to the Frenchman, and he has been indulging in a lot of it during the last few days.

Carp in Trim Shape

Carpentier and Gibbons are pinned down to the last hair for the round fight here tomorrow. Both are supremely confident of victory by the knockout route.

The majority opinion is that the fight will go the limit. Carpentier will step into the ring weighing between 175 and 178. Gibbons is expected to weigh in at 175 pounds. Gibbons weighed in yesterday but refused to make the poundage known. Carpentier is just as secretive.

Tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock the scrapers will be given a physical examination. They probably will be weighed in at the same time.

OMAHA BOY WINS

OVER JOHN CARR

CLEVELAND, May 30.—Mack McShaffin, Omaha, knocked out Johnny Carr, Cleveland welterweight in the first round of a scheduled 12-round bout.

Chauncey Depew announces he will take up golf when he is 100 years old. He says he has the theory that the second 100 years are the easiest.

300 ATHLETES ENTER ANN ARBOR RACES

ANN ARBOR, Mich., May 30.—Three hundred athletes, the cream of the middleweight here today to participate in the Olympic trials. Key competition is looked for in the 100-yard dash and several middleweight college and universities have sent their stars to participate in the two-day trials.

Illinois Athletic Club is looked upon as the strongest aggregation with Ray Jole, Howard Hoffman and other strong athletes. Chicago Athletic Club also has a strong outfit of men.

BLUE AND M'NALLY INDEFINITELY OUT

NEW YORK, May 29.—First Baseman Blue of the Detroit Tigers and Mike McNally, substitute infielder of the Yankees, were indefinitely suspended by President Johnson of the American league as a result of their last fight in the Yankee stadium yesterday.

BILLY MURPHY COPS BOUT FROM RASSI

LOWELL, Mass., May 30.—Billy Murphy, local scrapper, defeated Frankie Rossi, Welch champion, in a 10-round bout.

How Gibbons Hopes To Win in 3 Rounds

ROUND 1

ROUND 1—By launching a relentless, aggressive attack which will test R. Carpentier's speed and wind to the utmost.

ROUND 2—By beating a continuous tattoo on Carpentier's stomach, supplanting his weak spot, as a result of a giddy career on the boulevards.

ROUND 3—By bringing across a right to the jaw with sufficient power to send the Frenchman, now already weakened, crumpling to the canvas.

National League

KEEN IN FORM

CHICAGO, May 30.—Pittsburgh was unable to do much with Keen yesterday while Chicago, his opponent, belted him on balls and defeated the Pirates 5 to 2 in the final game of the series.

Score by innings:

American League

DEFEAT ST. LOUIS

DETROIT, May 30.—Detroit defeated St. Louis 13 to 7 in the only game played in the American League. The contest, played in unusually clear weather and under leaderless skies, stretched over two hours and 44 minutes. St. Louis used five pitchers who gave a total of 12 bases on balls, hit one batsman, made one wild pitch and one balk.

Score by innings:

St. Louis	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0

EASTERN TRACK MEN INVADE BOSTON MEET

BOSTON, May 30.—Star athletes of the eastern leading colleges were here today to attempt to set back three powerful California teams in the intercollegiate track and field championships.

The University of California champions for the last three years, had with them from the Pacific Coast Stanford and the University of Southern California with a flock of Olympic candidates.

Yale, Princeton and Pennsylvania, led the eastern ranks with Holy Cross, Boston College and Georgetown claiming the possibility of a dark horse.

GASSERS WIN, 7-0-5

GALVESTON, May 30.—Shreveport took a 7 to 5 victory over the Sand Crabs. The game was interrupted by heavy hitting, both sides getting fourteen bingles.

The score by innings:

CROWDS SURGE AT RACE TRACK

22 Cars Entered With Tom Milton Favorite

MOTOR SPEEDWAY, INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 30.—Long streams of spectators began pouring through the gates of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway at dawn today for the 12th international sweepstakes, 500 mile race.

Twenty-two cars out of an original entry list of 31 were certain to respond to the starting bomb at 10 o'clock. Two other cars under a special ruling were to be given an opportunity to qualify before that time.

In the crowd that swarmed through the gates at dawn were hundreds who had waited outside the entrance all night long to get good parking space on the inner edge of the big brick oval. Before midnight last night, the line of automobiles stretched two abreast for more than a mile. The first car in the line checked in just before noon yesterday.

Many Auto Caravans

Through the night, automobiles caravans rolled in and sped trains and interurbans brought additional thousands.

The speedway management expected a crowd of 150,000 to 165,000. To the tiny garages inside the big racing oval, the cars were being carefully oiled and inspected for the start.

Lineup up three abreast on the straightaway in front of the judges' stand at 10 o'clock the starters will take one lap paced by a Cole pathfinder car, and then the long first hundred mile run will be on.

The Racing Boys

Jimmy Murphy of the 1922 race takes the pole position with his Miller special which made the biggest speed in the qualified rounds. Next to him is assigned Harry Hartz, another veteran of the local track, driving a Durant. Tommy Milton, twice winner of the Indianapolis race, holds third position in the front row with another of the Miller specials. In the second row of starters were Joe Boyer, Bonnie Hill and Earl Cooper. Weather conditions were favorable for a record breaking race. The day was cool and clear. The track dried off early after a 48 hour deluge of rain.

Where Will New Champs Come From?

Marston and Jones Blazed New Trails in Their 1923 Golf Wins

THE geographical lines of golf supremacy were altered sharply last season when Max Marston and Bobby Jones carried the open championship down beyond the Mason and Dixon line.

Not that national championships are exactly novelties in either sector. Little Johnny McDermott, a Philadelphian, had previously won the open and Maxie Stirling had three times brought the women's title to Atlanta.

Incidentally, there aren't many cities in the land that can boast Atlanta's record of four national golf trophies.

NEW YORK leads in this respect through victories by Travis, Travers, Sweetser and Marion Holbrook. Chicago is next through the successful efforts of Egan, Evans, Gardner and Edith Cummings. Boston ranks near the top as a famous golfing city due to the winning efforts of Oimel and Guilford. Pittsburgh had title winners in Byers, Foyens, Herron and Sarazen.

None of the other metropolitan cities figure conspicuously as producers of champions, and this is strange considering the great growth the game is enjoying. Walter Hagen put Detroit in fancy headlines, but no one remained in Fordville to carry on when The Hais moved east.

Cleveland, with more than 5,000 active golfers, has yet to produce a championship golfer of any type. In fact, Ohio as a state has fallen far below par in this detail.

AT present the outstanding golfers hope for national honors is a girl, Louise Fordey of Youngstown. Harold Weber of Toledo, for years Ohio's leading amateur, is now in the veteran class. Emmett French, best of the pros in the presidential state, seems to lack consistency. Once he has as far as the finals in the professional tournament but was knocked off by Sarazen.

Where will the new champions come from this year? Jones and Marston weakened the New York-Boston-Chicago monopoly somewhat last summer. It wouldn't be bad for the game if the metropolitan clubs were extended still farther. A champion from the Pacific coast would be popular. Old Granddaddy Black of San Francisco came close two years ago at Skokie. One meager stroke kept him out of a tie for the open championship.

Mr. O'Goofy

PUT THE DABBY OVER

Mr. One Punch O'Goofy, present throwing in the towel, has dropped into our office this morning, announcing that he is headed in the general direction of Louisville and the Derby.

Mr. O'Goofy is one of those peculiar characters who are always eager to go far out of their way to make any complete and emphatic success.

Mr. O'Goofy was a first nightman when Booth was a call boy and he has always been Mr. O'Goofy's "fifth" than "fifth" family combined.

There have been a bigger hit than it was if he had been a first nightman. He has been a first nightman, and he has been a first nightman, and he has been a first nightman.

Mr. O'Goofy, it so happened, was detained in America, his courageous qualities to the hazardous matter of ship building.

It is with some regret, too, that Mr. O'Goofy admits not being on hand at Madison Square Garden, the night Harry Shaw was out running for wild architects on the roof.

In view of the fact that he was not actually there himself, Mr. O'Goofy is unable to understand the continued popularity of the Shaw episode, especially with newspaper editors.

"Every once in a while you'll find one of these things that will go over big without maintenance," Mr. O'Goofy said. "The flood was another of 'em."

MR. O'GOOFY THINKS THIS YEAR'S DABBY

will be the greatest in history. The boys have finally worked the Dabby to a point where it shares equal importance with a new set of Griffith pictures, a Sittman divorce proceeding and a Babe Ruth testimonial, states Mr. O'Goofy. "One of those things that you can't miss and still be a somebody."

At this point we asked Mr. O'Goofy what he thought of the Dabby. "Well, I suppose it's all right," he said. "The Prince of Wales is wearing a green shirt this evening. Personally, though, I like the old cap."

North Siders Trim West Side in Texaco Oil Loop

The North Side scored three runs in the third frame of a six-inning ball game with the West Siders in the Texaco Oil Loop on Lake Shore diamond Thursday, and the farm won a game, 6 and 2.

Henry, safe on first on Stoner's error, started the winning rally. Semmon struck out; Cousons delivered a single, sending Henry to third, the latter taking second on the first pitched ball. Henry scored on Humphries' single and Letscher scored Humphries and Cousons with a bit.

Stoner pitched good ball until the third stanza when the North Siders found his delivery for four hits and three runs and broke up the game.

The score—

West Side (2)	AB R H E
Sutton	1 1 0 0
Wiggins	0 0 0 0
Cleveland	0 0 0 0

QUESTIONS

1. Can a player start as pitcher, be shifted to other positions in the game, and then return to the pitching mound?
2. Can a batter, after having struck out, start for the bench, and then discovering the catcher has muffed the third strike, start for first?
3. If a substitute enters the game without notifying the umpire of the change, what is his status?

ANSWERS

1. A player has such a right provided he is continued in the lineup.
2. He has such a right, and is not out for running out of line, as many think.
3. If a substitute enters the game without announcing himself, to the umpire, any play made by him at the bat or in the field is considered legal.

WELL, that might be a good thing to do. Duh, just as you say. Fact is, it would result in us winning. Maybe, we said.

But, boy if you'd of seen those fellows over at Orange yesterday swinging their sticks and galloping around over the pasture pool tables, you'd of thought right off that Orange and Lettumont and Lake Charles didn't have no more chance than a donkey has in a race. Which they ain't.

ANTHONY, it's started off to be an unlikely gollud day this morning, and we're just hoping it don't start raining or nothing by evening, so we can get out there and strut our stuff a little bit.

Waddy says? Will you join us? Thanks, G'by. Don't kick the bat out down when you're leavin'.

Which reminds us, speaking of golluding, that Algonz Dabb dropped us a line today, addressed to "Steve", and this is what he scribbled:

"Dear Steve:

"Since it's imperative that Port Arthur win that next round of Inter-City Golluding over at Orange, and since George Craig won't be able to play with us at that time, I was just wondering who you might suggest to take the place of lead off man. And, Steve, don't you think it would be well to shake up our team as much as possible, and put the strongest players in the weakest fourours, so we'd make a better showing? I thank you."

"(Signed) A. DUBB."

RHUBARB IS FIT FOR KINGS

Quick Work, Light Touch,
Important Ingredients

While some pie bakers scoff at the idea of measuring flour, salt and water for the crust, the experienced cook finds it quite as necessary to measure her ingredients for pie as for cake.

So, for the benefit of the new cook this rule and measure for rhubarb pie is carefully worked out.

First and foremost, pasture flour should be used. Less fat is necessary to make a flaky crust and there is consequently no danger of a "lardy" taste to the pie. Half butter and half lard can be used if preferred, but the amount of shortening must be doubled.

The lard should be cold and firm but need not be chilled.

The water should be cold but need not be ice water.

Quick work and a light touch are two important ingredients for a good pie.

Rhubarb Pie

One pound rhubarb, 1 to 1 1/2 cups sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup pastry flour, 1/2 teaspoon lard, 1 scant teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons cold water.

Remove skin from rhubarb and cut in inch pieces. Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt and rub with the water with a fork until rhubarb is well covered.

Mix flour and salt and rub in third with tips of fingers. The mixture should be much like coarse corn meal. Add one tablespoon of water at one side of the flour mixture and work into about half of it. Add the other tablespoonful at the other side of the mixing bowl and work up the rest of the flour mixture. Work the two together, always rather teasing and lifting the dough than pounding or kneading it.

Divide, reserving a little more for the upper crust than the under. Work the dough into a round flat cake with the fingers, then put on the molding board, evenly floured, and roll. Turn the dough half way around after each rolling to keep it round.

Roll the dough to about three-eighths of an inch thickness. Fold one-half over the other and place on an eight-inch pie dish.

Fit smoothly with the tips of fingers. Be sure the dough covers the edge of the dish. Roll the remaining pieces of dough just as you did the first and cut a gash in the center. Fold over ready to put over under crust.

Fill the lined pie dish with prepared rhubarb. Add sugar and juice that have settled in the bowl of rhubarb should, of course, be poured over the rhubarb in the pie shell. Moisten the edge of the dough with cold water and fit top crust over dish. Press edges lightly together and trim close to the dish with a knife. Run the rolling pin gently around the edge to insure even pressure. Roll the edges together with the thumb and first finger of one hand, using the first finger of the other to make a sort of "flute" if you have no pastry jag.

Put into a hot oven and bake about 20 minutes. The rhubarb will cook as quickly as the crust.

Cornstarch is used in place of flour to thicken the juice because there is less danger of its boiling up out of the pie.

One cup of sugar will make a tart pie and one one-half cups will make a very sweet pie.

One pound of rhubarb measures three cups of rhubarb cut in inch lengths.

The oven should be hot enough to brown the pie as it bakes. Any pie with a top crust should be a healthy tan. Nobody likes an anemic looking pie.

SAYS STADIUM MUST GO OVER

McGill Urges That Regents
Row Not Interfere

AUSTIN, Texas, May 30.—The plea of students of the University of Texas for the successful continuation of the varsity stadium drive was voiced here this afternoon by Wm. L. McGill, chairman of the student committee in answer to an address by Will C. Bogg of Houston showing what Mr. Bogg declared the viewpoint of Houston in the matter.

"This is a student undertaking," McGill said. "We started it, Lutchy Stark had nothing to do with it. We all thought we were doing something that was great for Texas—something that would bring together all of the students and ex-students, for the first time. We did not expect organized opposition on the part of some ex-students."

"Our money went to constructive work on the stadium. We paid for the excavation going on now. We feel that all of you should work with us instead of taking the instrument that we have placed in your hands and speak us with it, instead of the regents. The stadium is the one thing with us. We beg you, sir, to go out."

Implements made by men more than 22,000 years old have been found in France.

and fight the regents if you want, but do not use our undertaking as an instrument to hurt us."

McGill expressed his views on the matter, declaring that the two were inseparable and he was greeted with a number of questions by ex-students, all of whom expressed their determination to continue the stadium campaign until it is completed.

BUTTER, EGGS NOT SO CASUAL

Good Cook Measure Them Out Carefully.

By MARY J. BARBER
Time was when the recipe books called nonchalantly for a dozen eggs and a pound of butter for a single cake. Nowadays, we do not speak of butter and eggs in this casual fashion, but we do still like cakes.

At this season of the year, eggs are usually at their best and cheapest, so we may only eat more of them poached, scrambled and boiled, but we use them more generally in cooking than has been our custom during the winter months.

A letter came to us the other day, asking us for some recipes for "health cakes." There are several cakes which may be considered, under this heading.

Plain "butter cake" served as a dessert, with a simple frosting or pudding sauce, is unlikely to upset a normal digestion. Sponge cakes and angel cakes are delicate and not too sweet, because they are usually served unfrosted.

In addition to the plain cake and cakes made without shortening, there are other health cakes—ones made with whole wheat flour or white flour mixed with bran. These are usually flavored with spices, and raisins or dates may be added.

BRAN GINGERBREAD
Cream one fourth of a cup of butter with half a cup of sugar, add one egg and beat well. Then add three quarters of a cup of crumbled bran, then half a cup of sour milk, and half a cup of molasses alternately with one cup and a half of flour that has been sifted with two teaspoons of cinnamon, one teaspoon each of ginger and soda and one fourth of a teaspoonful of salt. Bake in a moderate oven. The gingerbread may be baked in a cake pan or individual pans.

DATE CAKE
1/2 cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 3/4 cup crumbled bran, 1/2 cup milk, 1 3/4 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, whites 2 eggs, 1/2 cup dates (cut in pieces).

Mix ingredients in order given. Bake in shallow tin and spread between an on top caramel frosting.

"INJUN JOE," CONVICT,
WOULD DIE AT HOME

DENVER, Colo., May 30.—(Special Telegram.) Joe Terrell, oldest convict in the Colorado State penitentiary at Canon City, both in years and in point of service, is a candidate for a pardon.

For the fifth time since he was incarcerated more than thirty years ago, the aged prisoner has once more applied for freedom.

Terrell, also known as "Injun Jim" is an 86-year-old Navajo Indian who, some say, used to be a scout for the whites back in the days of Kit Carson. That occupation was lost to him, however, when an accident deprived him of the free use of his legs.

In the early 80s Terrell committed a murder in Pueblo, Colo., and was sentenced to be hanged. The sentence later was commuted to life imprisonment.

So long has the old man been a prison inmate that he has been granted a few special privileges. Years ago, for instance, he planted a peach tree in the prison yard. Now he has watched it grow to maturity, and every spring makes a few cents by selling fruit from "his" tree to prison visitors. He has also managed to pick up small sums by teaching Spanish to other prisoners.

"Injun Jim" doesn't want to die in prison, however, and asks permission to spend his few remaining days with relatives.

BROWN BREAD IS A LAXATIVE

Fresh Bread Should Never Be Given to Children

When fruit is in season, it should be served as often as possible. It never tastes as well as when picked fresh from your own garden, and even though it must be purchased, it is much less expensive in season. If the housewife who should economize will plan to use both wheat and fruit in season, she will save her grocery bill greatly reduced, and will always have well flavored food.

Brown bread is valuable for its minerals and laxative power, and should be served at least once a day. The recipe given below may be increased, and as many loaves made as desired. When it becomes stale it is very good toasted. Never give children bread which is less than twenty-four hours old. Fresh bread forms a pest in the stomach, and does not give the teeth and gums the needed exercise.

BREAKFAST

- Blackberries
- Buttered Toast
- Coffee
- Milk

LUNCH

- Salmon Croquettes
- Creamed Peas
- Graham Bread
- Butter

DINNER

- Roasted Chicken
- Boiled Potatoes
- Turnip Greens
- Orange Ice
- Devil's Food Cake
- Salmon Croquettes

1-3-4 c. cold flaked salmon. 1 c. thick white sauce, few grains cayenne, 1 t. lemon juice, salt.

Add sauce to salmon, add seasonings. Spread in plate to cool. Shape, dip in crumbs, egg, and crumbs again, fry in deep fat and drain.

Graham Bread

2 c. hot liquid (water or milk and water) 1-3 c. molasses, 2-3 t. salt, 1-4 yeast cake dissolved in 1-4 cup lukewarm water, 3 cups flour, 3 cups graham flour.

Add salt to milk, cool and when lukewarm add dissolved yeast cake and flour; beat well, cover and let rise to double its bulk. Beat again, add, turn into greased bread pan, 1-2 full, let rise and bake.

Vanilla Wafers

1-3 c. butter and lard in equal proportions, 1 c. sugar, 1 egg, 1-4 c. milk, 2 c. flour, 2 t. baking powder, 1-2 t. salt, 2 t. vanilla.

Cream butter and sugar, egg well beaten, milk and vanilla. Mix and sift dry ingredients and add to first mixture. Chill, toss on board, roll thin, bake in moderate oven.

Orange Ice

2 c. sugar, 4 c. water, 2 c. orange juice, 1-4 c. lemon juice, grated rind of two oranges.

Make syrup by boiling water and sugar 5 minutes add lemon and orange juice; cool, strain, freeze.

- Muffins

3-1-2 c. flour, 6 t. baking powder, 1 t. salt, 1-3 c. milk, 3 t. melted butter, 1 egg, 3 t. sugar.

Mix and sift dry ingredients; add gradually milk, egg well beaten, melted butter. Bake in buttered pan 25 minutes.

Slaw

Shred cabbage as for cold slaw using 1-2 cabbage. Heat in a dressing made of yolks of 2 eggs slightly beaten, 1-4 c. cold water, 1 t. butter, 1-4 c. hot vinegar, 1-2 t. salt, stirred over water until thickened.

Cream Pie

7-8 c. sugar, 1-3 c. flour, 1-8 t. salt, 2 eggs, 2 c. scalded milk, 1 t. vanilla or 1-2 t. lemon extract.

Mix dry ingredients, add eggs, slightly beaten, and pour on constantly until thickened, afterwards occasionally. Cool and flavor. Then put in crusts that have already been baked. Bake over with powdered sugar. Do not allow to stand.

BEAUTY TO FACE

PUG CAVE MAN

Fair Imogene Charges Tinney Beat Her Up

NEW YORK, May 30.—Election betting faded into the background today as Broadway dug down into hip pockets and sheer silliness today to wage its last on the third round of the great Tinney-Wilson love battle.

Odds were even that Imogene Wilson, Polka-dot beauty and known as the "horriblest" on Broadway, will appear in West Side court tomorrow to press charges against Tinney, popular black face comedian and described by Miss Wilson's lawyer as a man who has left a trail of maimed women across the continent.

Broadway at first simply refused to believe that Imogene would "go through with it."

"The guy Frank Tinney can talk a dame out of anything," the wise ones said.

But Imogene assured her friends she was far past the talking stage. "Get all the money you're got," she advised an admirer. "I'll be there if I can walk."

There was no word from Tinney he was last seen facing an irate wife in a taxi cab as he walked out of court yesterday, on a $2,500 bail to appear for hearing tomorrow on a charge of feloniously assaulting the chorus girl, "Bubbles," of love notes, who told police Tinney "knocked me cold" after a disagreement in her upstairs apartment.

Out of the 27,000 girls employed by one firm, an expert chiropodist found that only 25 per cent had perfect feet.

Latest News From Louisiana Towns

LAKE CHARLES, La.—A party of over 100 trade shippers from Shreveport visited Lake Charles this week. The business men are swinging through north, central and south Louisiana, making the trip in a special train. Royal welcomes have been accorded them at all cities and villages along the line, they reported here.

NEW ORLEANS, La.—The elderly man who kept to death from the dock of a Canal street ferry Tuesday night, was identified as Charles Burdette, Jr., a supernumerary policeman. The body has not been recovered identification being made possible through the straw hat picked up out of the river by Captain Coulon, of the ferry boat.

VILLA PLATTE, La.—Believing that her son said "something before he died—something that to know would be a relief," Mrs. Lee Wilson, 67, whose son was shot and killed when he opened the door of his coupe to give a pedestrian a ride on a country road near here, today expressed a desire to see Euzobe Vidrine, the confessed slayer, held in jail here. Authorities are attempting to dissuade Mrs. Wilson from interviewing Vidrine, believing that the talk with him would only tend to distress her more.

LAKE CHARLES, La.—D. A. Kelly, widely known lumberman and wholesale grocer of this city, died at Hot Springs, Ark., following an apopleptic stroke while at the health resort.

BUNKIE, La.—Selecting Hammond, La., as their place of meeting in 1925, editors of Louisiana closed the state press association here. The 1925 meeting will convene on the third Friday in May, President Mitchell said.

NEW ORLEANS, La.—For the first time in recent years, cotton was sold at auction before buyers at the public cotton warehouse here, this week. Harry W. Fitzpatrick and company, auctioneers, handled the auctioning. The lot put on the block totaled 535 bales, for which a dozen buyers offered $50,000 spot cash. The cotton was part of the cargo removed from the holds of West Hobomac after fire had broken out aboard the ship, and originally was consigned to Liverpool.

NEW ORLEANS, La.—James E. Britten, 27, boatwain on the steamship West Iron who was shot two weeks ago by John Rich, third engineer, made a dying statement Tuesday night at the Marine hospital to Detective Captain James P. Glynn, Britten's half-brother, George, and Anton J. Rasse, also were witnesses. It became known today. The wounded man's condition is considered as critical, the bullet having lodged in his abdomen. Britten's statement was that Rich shot him in the back without provocation, and that he was unarmed at the time. The ship was in Sabine dry dock when the shooting occurred.

COCHITATTA, La.—A new gravelled road between this place and Crichton is nearing completion. When finished, the road will form a direct connection with Shreveport.

Save Lives By Knowing How

CHICAGO, May 30.—Proper application of resuscitation will save thousands of apparently dead from death, says Captain C. H. Fisher, author of a first-aid bulletin.

Fisher's instructions apply to cases of drowning, electric shock, asphyxiation from fumes and gas, particularly monoxide gas, generated by gasoline engines; also victims of severe body shock, as from a heavy fall or some hard object striking a workman on the chest.

"Such a man frequently is in a condition of suspended animation," Fisher declared. "He needs first-aid in the form of artificial respiration, but if he does not get it he will have to be buried."

Fisher advises the use of the "Schaefer" or "prone" method of resuscitation, which is simply that of compelling the diaphragm to "carry on" until the respiratory nerve centers are restored and the heart and lungs "come back." The first four steps to be taken are given as follows:

First, loosen all tight clothing at the neck, and especially around the waist. This permits the diaphragm to have free play. Therefore, a belt, trouser band, skirt bands and corsets, positively must be loosened.

Second, turn the body face down, with interlocked fingers under the waist, and jerk the body up. If a drowning case, repeat two or three times; likewise for gas, fumes or smoke; this action causes the water to belch out and frees the air passages, but do it in every case.

Third, bring the tongue forward, clear the mouth of loose false teeth, food, gum of tobacco; if none of these is present there is usually froth or mucus.

Fourth, stretch the arms above the head, flex one arm with hand towards opposite shoulder, lay head on this arm with face outwards.

For Artificial Respiration The movements to be performed in producing artificial respiration are as follows:

First, straddle the body with your knees just above those of the victim, at the same time make your arms rigid, keeping the thumbs close to the fingers.

Second, place the hands on the victim's body above, but close to the hips, fingers tips out of sight; the fingers are thus over the floating ribs.

Third, throw weight of your body on your rigid arms, and as you bear down press in with the fingers. This pressure should only last during two slow counts, and effects expiration, or breathing out.

Fourth, as you count two, snap the hands of the victim to the ground; continue to count three, four, five and resume as above until resuscitation is achieved.

A Few Don'ts In conclusion, Captain Fisher suggests the following don'ts:

Don't wait, under any circumstances, in starting artificial respiration; time is a tremendous factor.

Don't surrender the body to an ambulance unless the movement can be carried on en route.

Don't rub the limbs until the victim shows signs of reviving, unless he is an illuminating gas victim.

Don't be too eager to give liquid stimulants until reviving. Give the patient time to get his breath.

Don't fail to watch him for hours after resuscitation; he may stop breathing again. If so, repeat the movement.

As an aid in performing the movement successfully, follow these hints: Have an assistant kneeling at the victim's head, holding a cloth on which aromatic spirit of ammonia has been sprinkled, and as the operator's hands are snapped off the body, place the cloth for a moment near the mouth and nostrils so that the inhaling air may be mingled with the stimulant.

To Provide Heat If cold, a blanket may be placed over the body; also hot water bottles may be placed at the feet and close to arm-pits; but take care not to burn the victim.

In a case of severe electric shock, in which the victim did not fall over feet: Have helpers kneel close by with a stout stick, and at intervals of one minute apart, lift each foot alternately (clear off the ground) and sit twice between heel and sole. This is what is known as "counter shock" and has the remarkable effect of quickening the reaction of the paralyzed nerve centers because there is an intimate relationship between the soles of the feet and the nervous system. The nervous agitation caused by the tickling of the feet is a proof of this fact; how much more, then, by this method of nerve excitement.

WHITE SLAVERY GROWS IN BERLIN

BERLIN, May 30.—"White slavery" flourishes in the night-life joints of Berlin.

Hundreds of women are held in strict bondage in these haunts, where high-priced champagne of doubtful quality bubbles as plentifully as spring water.

These women are sold body and soul to the night-life establishments.

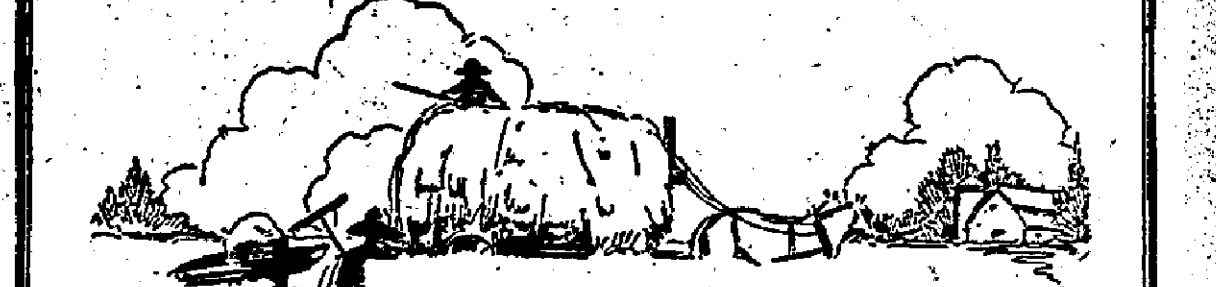

not leave the dance hall or bar or cabaret, which ever the establishment may be, under penalty of diamond and black-lifting in other similar establishments.

Their principal occupation is to induce wealthy customers to buy of the four liquors and champagne, and then buy more, until the pocketbook has been well-drained.

In some establishments, they purchase pocket-pleasing as a sideline. The "high-grade" night places frown upon such occupation, but as a part of the girl's weekly stipend, she has the privilege, after closing hours, of accompanying the guest "home."

"Home" for the intoxicated patron proves generally to be one of a chain police.

Women employed as white slaves by the night establishments do not register, as a rule, with the police like their sisters of the Friedrichstrasse. But the more "select" night-life resorts boast that they maintain an inspection and control system better than the rigid regime of the Prussian police.

To Work Without Tiring

YOU must have food which is easily digested, quickly absorbed and full of energy. Sugar is a wonderful help to workers because it is an energizing food, supplying strength almost as soon as it is eaten.

DIAMOND STAR Brands of Pure Cane Sugar

contain a high proportion of energy units because they are made in the best refinery in the U. S. A. and have no adulterants. Ask your grocer for them, use them freely when you are doing hard work, and see the difference.

"I don't care whether it's honest or not," declared Mister Crow sourly, "but just as soon as Farmer Jones is up, I'm going to take my wife and children to the cornfield on a picnic and eat all the nice juicy young sprouts of corn I can hold. And I'm going to tell them to eat all they can hold, too. So now, there!"

"Hush, on you, Mister Crow," said Mister Bagg, the fairy storekeeper. "Why, pickles and portulacas! If all the birds felt the same as you do, there wouldn't be any corn left to grow up at all. And there wouldn't be any nice young sprouts of corn for the children to eat. And worst of all, there wouldn't be any corn to get dry and store away, so that the horses and cows and chickens and pigs and turkeys won't starve to death next winter."

"Humph! What do I care?" cried Mister Crow. "You sound exactly like a lecture. Mister Bagg, I don't like lectures. And the cows and chickens may, as well starve as we."

"But you won't starve. There are lots and lots of things for you to eat, Mister Crow," said Nancy. "You sound just like a lecture, too," declared the big black bird. "And I didn't come in to be lectured. I came in to find out if Farmer Jones had bought his seed corn yet for planting."

"Yes, he has," snapped Mister Bagg. "And if you take any of it, I'll report you to the law. So I can get a bite or two. I'm nearly starved."

"Away he flew."

CHILD'S STORY OF THE HUMAN RACE

By Uncle RAY

The "Painted People" of Britain

"The Painted People" That is what a Greek named Pytheas called the people of Britain when he sailed back home about two thousand three hundred years ago.

The Greeks in that ship had visited Great Britain only a little while but long enough to learn that the people of Britain painted their faces. So they were called "Tritones" which meant "Painted People."

Later, they were called Britanni or Britons.

The Britons soon forgot about the Greeks. They went on with their savage lives.

For almost three hundred years, all went well. Then came the soldiers of Rome, led by Julius Caesar. They fought the Britons and stayed for some years on the southern part of the island. Then they withdrew to France (then called Gaul).

A century later, the Romans came back. This time, they were prepared to stay. The Britons fought them, but were beaten. Some of them fled to Scotland, Wales or Ireland. Others stayed in the part of the island called to us in the names of certain English cities, such as Lancaster.

Perhaps the most famous thing done by the Romans was the building of the "Wall of Hadrian."

Hadrian was a Roman emperor. During his reign, the Romans in Britain built a great wall just south of Scotland. This wall stretched from one side of the country to the other. It was built at a spot where England is very narrow, and was about 70 miles long.

The Wall of Hadrian was built of stone. It was about three times as high as a man. It was eight feet thick. In front was a ditch.

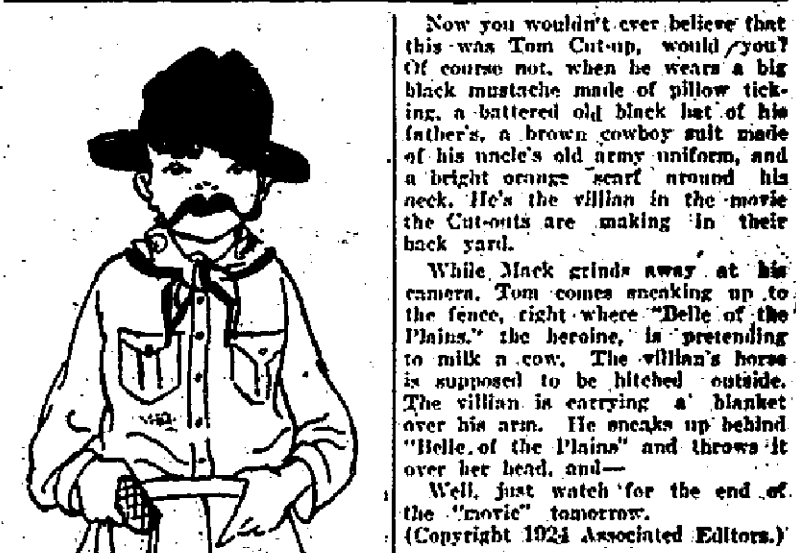

The Romans built this wall so they would not have to worry so much about the people in Scotland. They were afraid the savage Britons up there might come down any time. The wall was a good protection.

The Romans built many fine roads on the island. Remains of some of them may still be seen in England.

Color Cut-Outs

At the Rodeo

Now you wouldn't ever believe that this was Tom Cut-up, would you? Of course not, when he wears a big black mustache made of yellow sticks, a battered old black hat of his father's, a brown cowboy suit made of his uncle's old army uniform, and a bright orange scarf around his neck. He's the villain in the movie the Cut-outs are making in their back yard.

While Mack grinds away at his camera, Tom comes sneaking up to the fence, right where "The Villain of the Plains" is pretending to milk a cow. The villain's horse is supposed to be hitched outside. The villain is carrying a blanket over his arm. He sneaks up behind "Hole of the Plains" and throws it over her head, and there he is. Well, just wait for the end of the "movie" tomorrow.

Means Claims Smith Involved Sec. Mellon

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Gaston B. Means in his farewell "appearance" before the senate Daugherty investigating committee today said that Secretary Mellon had gone into an arrangement with Fred Upham, New York bootlegger to give Shalston liquor permits for which he was to pay a part of the republican national committee deficit.

Means said he heard that Fred Upham, treasurer of the republican national committee and Senator Harcourt New Mexico, were parties to the "deal."

BRITISH DIVORCE DECREE NULLED

Court Declares for Wife in Russell Squabble

By United Press.
LONDON, May 30.—The house of lords today sustained the appeal of the Hon. Christabel Russell and set aside the verdict under which her husband, the Honorable John Russell, was granted a divorce on the ground of her misconduct with an unknown correspondent.

The Honorable John Russell is the son and heir of Lord Amphil, holder of one of the oldest peerages in England. The verdict paved the way for probable later action by the wife to establish the legitimacy of her son, Geoffrey, with a view to the eventual succession by him to the Amphil title.

Lord Birkenhead, reading the decision, declared the husband's testimony denying relations with his wife should not be admitted. When the boy Geoffrey becomes 21, therefore, and applies for entrance to the house of lords, such evidence will not be admissible and Geoffrey will be "pronounced legitimate."

The Russell divorce case aroused unusual interest in England and the litigation has extended over a period of two years. At the first hearing the husband alleged that misconduct of his wife with an unnamed correspondent, but was unable to prove his charges and the petition was dismissed. He later charged misconduct with a man unknown and was granted a decree of divorce, which was upheld in the court of appeal.

The Honorable Christabel Russell carried the case to the house of lords which has now set aside the verdict.

In the course of trials the Honorable John Russell alleged that the child, Geoffrey, was not his and that he had been no relationship. His wife, however, denied this. The case has been commonly referred to in England as "the sleep walking case" and the younger son is the "dream baby."

DISLIKES NAME, SEEKS DIVORCE

Wife Told to Find Better Cause to Try Again

DETROIT, Mich., May 30.—Because she would rather be called "Smith" than "Jones," Mrs. Barbara Jones, 68, filed suit for divorce from Lucian Jones, she told Judge Ernest T. Lajoie at a hearing of the suit in circuit court.

Extreme and repeated cruelty on the part of her husband was charged by Mrs. Jones. Judge Lajoie called Jones, who was standing in the rear of the courtroom, to the witness box and asked him if he was willing for his wife to get a divorce.

"No, sir," answered Jones decisively. "We were living together happily as far as I was concerned, and I think we could continue right along that way."

Jones said his wife asked him to get a divorce, and when he refused said she would get it herself. They were married June 30, 1921, and separated July 15, 1923. Before his marriage, Jones was a reformer in the home of Mrs. Jones, then Mrs. Smith.

Judge Lajoie refused to grant the divorce and advised the couple to patch up their matrimonial difficulties. They agreed to try.

'GO GETTER' THREATENS PASSING OF SCIENTIST

EL PASO, Texas, May 30.—The "go-getter" was forewarned by Dean F. C. Lockridge, of Arizona University, in an address to the American Association for the Advancement of Science here.

The intellectual worker is tending to disappear because Wall Street and labor unions do not appreciate his attachment of the cause of the truth," the educator declared.

"In the survival of the fittest under modern conditions, the saint, scientist, and scholar will vanish because they cannot become promoters or speculators, and force the world to give them adequate material returns for their efforts."

Bryan Ready to Meet Evolution Proponents

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., May 30.—William Jennings Bryan, a vocal and virulent opponent of the evolution theory is ready to match college degrees with any "son of an ape."

Bryan took offense at a speech by Professor Theodore S. Henry of the psychology department of Western State Normal, Kalamazoo, Mich., in which Dr. Henry said the commoner didn't know what he was talking about.

"I can write A. B. A. M., L. L. D., and L. L. B. after my name," Bryan told an audience here.

"I have never done so but if some people are so keen on calling me an ignoramus, I'm going to carry cards large enough to list these titles."

WELLS ORGANIZES A CHAMBER BAND

WELLS, Texas, May 30.—Citizens of Wells and the surrounding communities are to have their full share of music during the coming summer months.

Announcement was made recently of the organization of a 23-piece brass band to be known as the Wells Chamber of Commerce band. In addition to conducting some of the best musicians in that part of the country, the band claims the distinction of being one of the largest groups of music disseminators in all east Texas.

They will begin giving concerts in the near future.

The Man Who Whittled Is Yelderman's Theme

Sunday night at the First Christian church Rev. R. R. Yelderman will preach on the theme, "The Man Who Whittled." In speaking of his sermon this morning Rev. Yelderman said that it was one of those messages one cannot forget and will want to treasure down through the years.

"There are some world champion whittlers, and there are some apprentice whittlers who are just learning the art," said the minister. "But I am going to pay my respects to all whittlers, champions and apprentices on this occasion."

Special music will be rendered during the evening and there will be an old-fashioned congregational sing. The First Christian church has a number of electric fans, and these are being used in a comfortable place in which to worship, Rev. Yelderman stated.

MISSOURI MAN TO NOMINATE?

G. D. P. Choice Narrows To Hadley and Hyde

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Elimination of "possibilities" for the honor of putting President Coolidge in nomination at the republican national convention at Cleveland has narrowed to "two men in Missouri" it was indicated at the White House today.

Through the men were not named, it was believed that the selection lies before former Governor Hadley and Governor Hyde.

Announcement of the nominator, the chairman of the resolutions committee and the permanent chairman of the convention is expected from William M. Butler, manager of President Coolidge's re-election campaign today or tomorrow. Butler leaves for Cleveland Sunday.

The Honorable Christabel Russell carried the case to the house of lords which has now set aside the verdict.

In the course of trials the Honorable John Russell alleged that the child, Geoffrey, was not his and that he had been no relationship. His wife, however, denied this. The case has been commonly referred to in England as "the sleep walking case" and the younger son is the "dream baby."

237 Reports Favor L. Davidson, Claim

HOUSTON, Texas, May 30.—Two hundred and thirty-seven separate county reports delivered through individuals coming to Waco Monday and Tuesday in connection with the state democratic convention named Lynch Davidson the leading candidate in the Texas gubernatorial race.

Such was Lynch Davidson's statement upon his return to Houston from Waco Wednesday morning given out preparatory to renewing his campaign for the governorship. Lynch Davidson took him to Orange Thursday night, Port Arthur Friday night and Richmond Saturday afternoon. There are approximately 50 more campaign days prior to the July primaries affording Davidson the opportunity of adding 100 more speeches to a total of about one hundred and sixty.

Jones said his wife asked him to get a divorce, and when he refused said she would get it herself. They were married June 30, 1921, and separated July 15, 1923. Before his marriage, Jones was a reformer in the home of Mrs. Jones, then Mrs. Smith.

Judge Lajoie refused to grant the divorce and advised the couple to patch up their matrimonial difficulties. They agreed to try.

Extreme and repeated cruelty on the part of her husband was charged by Mrs. Jones. Judge Lajoie called Jones, who was standing in the rear of the courtroom, to the witness box and asked him if he was willing for his wife to get a divorce.

"No, sir," answered Jones decisively. "We were living together happily as far as I was concerned, and I think we could continue right along that way."

Advice to the June Graduate College Education Great Help to Those Entering Banking, Says Harding

BY W. F. G. HARDING

Former Governor of the Federal Reserve Board

(NOTE—This is the third of a series of articles giving valuable hints to this year's graduates and written especially for The News by America's leaders in their respective professions.)

A good collegiate education is of great advantage to any young man who proposes to enter any business. It is a training which gives him a true value of his own time, and on the other hand, it enters business with the expectation of occupying at once a position in the business world analogous to the standing he has just relinquished as a senior at his college, he will be disillusioned.

The training received at college is useful in that it tends to broaden the mind of a young man and to enable him to understand better some of the underlying principles which govern all legitimate business. The value of this training, however, will become more apparent as the man grows older and after he has been able to assume a position of responsibility.

Many professions are overcrowded and many lines of business are overdone. Young men without means are obliged, of course, to begin in some subordinate position, and in the great majority of cases, even those with independent means who wish to engage in business, had best start near the bottom in order to acquire a thorough knowledge of the business without risk.

While there is room at the top for only a few, that fact should be an incentive for each one to do his best effort. If the heights cannot be attained, none should be satisfied as a result of his life's work with less than respectable mediocrity.

I do not know that the banking business or any other business is capable of assimilating all the young men and women who seek to enter it. The present tendency seems to be toward fewer banks in proportion to the number of population. Banking as a profession, however, has its attractions and offers opportunities to those whose tastes incline them in that direction and who are willing to go through the drudgery of intensive training.

There is no reason in my opinion to expect that opportunities to rise in the future will be fewer than in the past, but as the population increases, the number of contestants in the race for preferment in any line of business will naturally be greater.

JAP PAPER SAYS HANIHARA TO QUIT

TOKIO, May 30.—The newspaper Yomiuri confirms the report that Japanese Ambassador Hanihara in Washington will resign because of opposition to the Japanese exclusion clause in the new American immigration bill. The ambassador plans to go into private life and probably will join the mitsui firm with which his wife's family is identified, the newspaper says.

Yomiuri also notes that women in Osaka have started a campaign for boycott of foreign made products, urging that only Japanese made goods be used in households.

ing directions to confused travelers on subways in the Times Square area, have been recently supplemented by freer ones by spreading in green and white paint, for convenience of passengers near Union Square. Underground signs in New York are as important as signs along rural roads are to motorists.

To sophomores of Harvard college its dean recently declared that marriage wasn't enough for the modern girl; she should also have a career. "Every girl should have some definite vocation besides matrimony," he said.

"It would be a fine thing if American women could build up a tradition of political service as we see in England. Women are happier if they have careers."

Human money changers are now obsolete. For some time certain surface cars have made change through a mechanical device within the car itself, operated by the motorman, who is paid when passengers alight. Now comes another mechanical step. It is the automatic and instantaneous change maker, designed for subway use which promises to further lessen delay of passengers at many subway stations.

The machine throws out change for dimes, quarters and 50 cents with greater rapidity than the human money changers, always returning the exact amount deposited therein, and detecting bad coins and slugs. After making change the machine shifts back into position ready to serve the next passenger.

AMERICAN FLYERS RESUME WORLD TRIP

TOKIO, May 30.—The American round the world flyers will get under way again Sunday, a message from Kasumibaura said today.

The three American flyers have finished overhauling their planes after the hard flight across the icy North Pacific seas from Alaska and are anxious to be on their way again, the message said.

JUDGE MAY BUY A MUNICIPAL KIMONO

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, May 30.—Judge Union, corporation court, is considering purchase of a municipal kimono. His honor was amazed when a fair defendant was brought before him in negligence to plead guilty to a charge of drunkenness. (Gone was her outer clothing torn off in a fight. One look at the high heeled slippers, the silk stockings, the teddies and brassier and the judge blushing announced a $5 fine. Spectators thought he rushed proceedings unthinkingly.)

Well-Known Business Man Freed of Twenty Years' Suffering

A. W. TAYLOR

That the sensational new medicine Karnak has relieved him of twenty years of suffering and restored his health after all other means had failed is the astonishing statement of Mr. A. W. Taylor, well-known business man residing at 816 East Tenth Street, Oklahoma City.

"I think it is my duty to let the public know what Karnak has done for me," said Mr. Taylor in making public his experience. "For twenty years before I got this remarkable medicine I had not seen a well day, and I frequently had to leave my business and go home to bed. Nothing at all seemed to digest properly. I was continually bothered with terrific headaches, sluggish liver and constipation, and severe pains extending from my right side to my back kept me in constant torment. I had about made up my mind to undergo an operation to see if it would help me, but a friend got me started to taking Karnak and I would not take anything on earth for what the medicine has done for me. My digestion is splendid, the other troubles are also gone, and I feel better than I have in years and years. I consider Karnak worth its weight in gold."

Mr. Taylor's statement is typical of hundreds of others being made about the famous new medicine.

P.A. COLLEGE HAS FAMILY REUNION

200 Attend Seventh Annual Banquet

The Seventh Annual Banquet of Port Arthur College, held at the Plaza Hotel last night was a lively affair from the first cap of the bell for silence by Toastmaster Leonard Power until the final song was sung at 10 o'clock.

Toasts, roasts, addresses, songs and a stunt by the students held the interest of approximately 200 guests for two hours and a half.

The banquet was opened with several Port Arthur College songs sung by the guests, led by A. M. Cullenpeper, director of music. The board of trustees, the honor guests of the occasion were introduced individually by President Power.

The first toast given was to the former students of the college by Carroll Carruth, a student at the present and was responded to by Miss Orta Peltier.

A roast, rather than a toast to the trustees was given by Prof. J. M. Latham, who was introduced by the toastmaster as "Roll, Roll, Roll" Latham. He "rolled" the trustees both individually and collectively and had at his finger tips a roast on the president of the college as well as for each one of the trustees.

Hon. J. W. Williams, president of the board of trustees, responded to the toast by outlining briefly the progress made in the last year by the college and pointed out future intentions of the board of trustees for the expansion of the college insofar as possible.

Aster McFatter gave a toast to the faculty members and was responded by Prof. Howard A. Brooks of the faculty who pointed out the kindly feeling which exists between the faculty members and the students. Professor Brooks announced that he would not be a member of the faculty at Port Arthur College next year.

Van Andrus toasted the ladies in praiseworthy terms and was replied to by Miss Janie Hadan with a toast for the gentlemen.

Twenty-five students of the college consented to a take-off on the individual members of the faculty. The scene was laid in President Power's office and the faculty members were "traced" individually by the players. The faculty members were first portrayed by the students on a day of teachers' meeting when they were tired and worn out with work. A student dressed in King Tut fashion appeared at the meeting and declared he possessed the powers of transformation and would change them into any kind of personality they desired to be. They each passed into a curtained box and by a few magic words on the part of the magician were transformed into personalities ranging from carefree men of the world to the latest approved form of "flappers." Professor Brooks was mimicked as the father of several modern children who desired to go to school, sing and dance and refuse to go to school.

President Power made a short talk at the conclusion of the program in which he expressed his belief in the future prosperity of Port Arthur College and pledged himself to place all of the energy in his power to further the interests of the college.

K. OF P. NOMINATIONS TO BE HELD TONIGHT

Piggly-Wiggly Opens Second Store Here to Be Finest of Five in Jefferson County

NEW STORE TO OPEN SATURDAY

Souvenirs To Be Distributed To Patrons

Piggly Wiggly store No. 2 for Port Arthur which is to be the finest of five in Jefferson county, opens its doors for business Saturday morning at the new building 709 Procter street.

The formal opening of the second Piggly Wiggly store in Port Arthur will be attended with proper entertainment and souvenirs and a general business as usual. The new store is to be a result of an increased business which not only justified but demanded another store in Port Arthur, officials state. The manager of the two Piggly Wiggly stores, A. B. Schneider, has been in Port Arthur since 1918. He has been with the Piggly Wiggly company here in its whole period of growth. Mr. Schneider has seen the first Piggly-Wiggly store started on a modest scale in 1918, grow and expand until it has become an institution.

See Future in Port Arthur

F. A. Cary who is general manager of the two Port Arthur stores, the three at Beaumont and the Orange Piggly-Wiggly store here for a year and a half, moving to Beaumont in 1930 to take care of the company interests there.

Records of the Piggly Wiggly company show that since the original store was begun here in 1918 the business of the company has increased approximately 75 per cent. It is this appreciation of the Piggly Wiggly system which the people of Port Arthur have manifested which has made it necessary for another fine business establishment to be added, Cary said. The new store is to have an initial stock of approximately $5,000 of the high grade goods handled by Piggly Wiggly.

Fixtures costing $2,500 will be installed in the new establishment. The No. 2 store will be the most up-to-date Piggly Wiggly establishment in Jefferson county, according to Mr. Cary. All of the latest turnstile devices and patented fixtures which can only be found in Piggly Wiggly stores will be in the new building. Officials have taken pride in starting off the new store with a setting of stocks and fixtures commensurate with the patronage given the Piggly Wiggly system here.

The operation of a Piggly Wiggly bakery which will supply both stores here is a feature which the managers have taken considerable pains with.

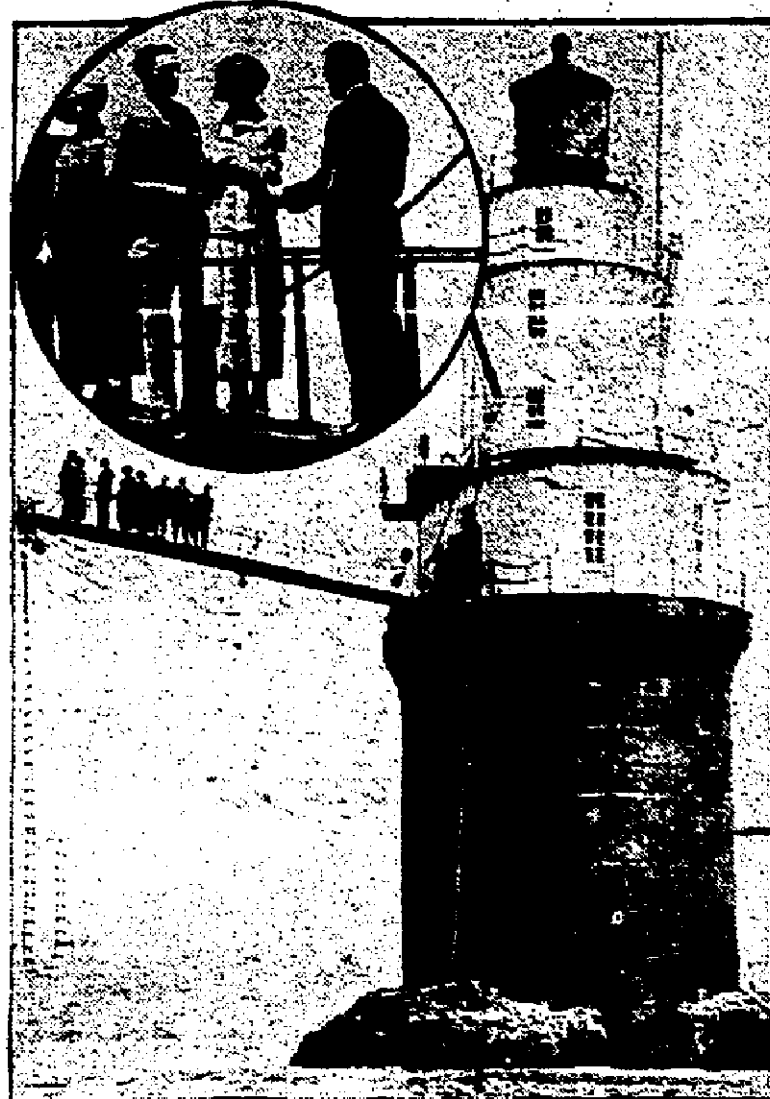

Market Department

The market department of the two stores will continue to see the same efficient, economical and sanitary service which has been in practice at the No. 1 store, Cary said. That the meat sales of Piggly Wiggly have justified the installation of a market is evidenced by the steady growth of patronage of this department.

"We feel assured our second store in Port Arthur will render such service as to deserve the same splendid patronage which has been accorded our other venture here. I have no doubt but that Port Arthur Piggly Wiggly sales will lead out with the best cities of this section. We appreciate the fact Port Arthur has thought enough of Piggly Wiggly service to make the installation of another store necessary," was the statement of Mr. Cary yesterday while here aiding in making final arrangements for the Saturday opening.

"We are delighted to be moving into another building for we feel we can be in a better position to give Port Arthur Piggly Wiggly customers a higher grade of service. We want to invite the entire citizenship to look in on us Saturday at our opening. It is your store and we want you to continue to regard it as such," was the comment of Manager Schneider.

Married on a Lighthouse

Some folks have been married by radio. Others have said their marital vows in airplanes up in the clouds. But a wedding on a lighthouse is something new. It remained for Ole Olsen and Grace Weber, vaudeville entertainers, to do it. The ceremony was performed on a gangplank of Mile Rock Lighthouse at the entrance to the Golden Gate, San Francisco, 40-feet above the sea. Judge Frank Dunn officiated. Inset is a closeup of the nuptials.

OPERATE STILL AS MEN LABOR

Miners Wives in Pennsylvania Help 'Make Out'

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., May 30.—Women are the unwilling, but most numerous violators of the prohibition laws in this section of the anthracite coal region, according to welfare agencies who have started a drive to aid the wives of foreign-born workers who are compelled by their husbands to operate stills while the men are in the mines.

Testimony which came to light in police courts caused the welfare workers to start an investigation which shows that hundreds of women are unwilling accomplices of their "men" in making moonshine, but are afraid to inform the police or even testify when they are arrested.

Most of the smaller stills in homes here, according to the welfare workers, are among the class of people where the wife and mother have been raised to obey unquestioningly.

The Lehigh Valley Coal company recently issued orders that tenants who operate stills in company houses will be summarily evicted and other coal companies are waging campaigns to wipe out the numerous illicit moonshine stills.

According to Captain Clark, commanding the state police here, there are more stills in operation in the anthracite region than in any other section of the country. Exploding stills have caused a dozen deaths within the past year and deaths from poison whisky have mounted alarmingly, the coroner reports.

In one raid by the state police, a six-year-old boy was found operating a still and several cases have come before the juvenile court of intoxicated children.

Rats Raid Home Of Birds on the Clyde

GLASGOW, Scotland, May 30.—An extraordinary army of rats, estimated at several hundred thousand, suddenly discovered that a sumptuous feast may be had from the eggs and young of the sea fowl which for several centuries have frequented Ailsa Craig, a picturesque headland on the Clyde.

The rats have scaled the heights of Ailsa Craig and their frantic squealings over the plunder can be heard on quiet nights well out in the Firth of Clyde.

As for the birds, their distraction is apparent more than a mile away. Local ornithologists say that some species like the quail-shaped rail, colored puffin are, locally, absolutely extinct. The rats have eaten all the eggs.

Other species have, it appears, abandoned the place. Whether they will ever find their way back is a question.

Clyde shipowners are being urged to contribute to a fund for the extermination of the rats.

HERE'S SLOT MACHINE TO SPRAY PERFUMERY

DALLAS, Texas, May 30.—A slot machine which sprays fastidious gentlemen with imported perfume at 10 cents a squirt is doing a flourishing business in the men's room of a downtown hotel here.

Jellybeans and others, rooming for an engagement with their fairer halves, have been seen to put the finishing touches on their immaculate selves by walking up the automatic sprayer, dropping in a dime and turning the knob.

The machine hangs on the wall near the bootblock stand just off the main lobby. For the drop of a slug it extrudes sweet odors of black raspberries.

But like the automatic music box the man who drops the slug doesn't get a monopoly on the returns. Swarms of lobby leeches sniff the exotic aroma without investing a dime.

unlary afternoon when she is in the Piggly Wiggly New Store. All you have to do to win the $10 is to recognize Miss Dairy Maid and present her with a pound of Dairy Maid butter. If you are correct in your selection you will be presented with $10 in gold, according to Anderson and Hillman, distributors for Dairy Maid butter in this territory.

BUTTER PLANT GROWING FAST

120,000 Pounds Weekly Is Capacity

The plant of the Texas Creamery company, manufacturer of Morning Glory butter located on Texas avenue, Houston, is one of the most modern, if not the most modern of any in the entire south, according to C. S. Anderson, manager of this district, who has over 100,000 pounds per week. The equipment is of the most modern type, in every department of the entire creamery.

Only recently two new stories were added to the plant in addition to a public storage plant, thus enabling The Texas Creamery to give the utmost service to its clients.

Purest cream purchased from over the entire state for the manufacture of Morning Glory butter, and because of the strictly modern machinery and the efficient process through which this cream is put, only the very finest butter is produced. Every pound of Morning Glory butter is of a uniform taste. Therefore when you buy one of Morning Glory, you buy a product that is uniform day in and day out.

FROM HORSE TO SEVEN TRUCKS

Port Arthur Grain Co. Has 7 Cold Storage Rooms

Only a few years ago, the Port Arthur Grain company was located in a frame building at its present location of Houston avenue. At the time the Port Arthur Grain company had only one delivery truck, drawn by a single horse. This took care of all the deliveries of the company. Today, however, the Port Arthur Grain company has grown to be the largest wholesale house in Port Arthur, having a large building for the feed, flour and grains, and then, too, having seven large cold storage rooms to take care of the produce and meat departments. They employ upward of 25 men and women, now and have seven automobile trucks to take care of their delivery system, according to Walter Kavanaugh, manager. The buildings cover about half block now and constitutes Port Arthur's largest wholesale firm.

Chokers made of very large pearl beads are worn with boyish tailored costumes. Many times the pearls are as large as marbles. Natural pearl shades are those most frequently seen, although pearls of pinkish and greenish tones and pearls of gemstone tones are also in vogue.

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS WILL PLANT COTTON

MOUNTAIN, May 30.—King Cotton bids fair to extend the limits of his realm far beyond the reaches of a warm southern sun—farther than was ever dreamed a few seasons ago. Between 20,000 and 30,000 acres of cotton will be planted in southern Illinois this season, according to information received by H. E. Schultz, agricultural statistician. Now is cotton a "midwest crop" in this state which boasts heavy yields of small grain per acre. Of more than 3,000 acres planted in cotton in 1935, the average yield was about a half a bushel an acre—a high average for the heart of the cotton belt. Success of the northern planter in raising this crop has been brought about largely through the development of different varieties of cotton seed which mature early and the boll weevil plague of the southern planter, cannot survive Illinois winters thereby eliminating danger from this pest.

ANTI KLAN SOCIETY FORMED AT EASTLAND

EASTLAND, Texas, May 30.—An avowed anti-Klax Klan society is holding weekly meetings here to which everyone, including klansmen have been invited.

The organization, known as the Eastland Constitutional club, has as its main purpose the suppression of political activities of the hooded order.

The meeting will be continued until after the June primaries.

Vienna Gets Back Her Flower Gardens

VIENNA, May 30.—One by one Vienna is discarding her rag and is again assuming something of her beautiful pre-war appearance.

At least she is trying to remove some of her down-at-the-heels appearance of the past 10 years and is exchanging her beggar's garments for something more resembling "glad rags."

One of the most pleasing sights in old Vienna was the hundreds of "suspended flower gardens," with which the otherwise unsightly lamp posts were adorned. During the war and the period of revolution which followed the flowers disappeared, and the lamp posts were left standing naked. In front of the National theater and other buildings in which Vienna takes special pride the miniature gardens have again appeared.

From the standpoint of economy the flower decorations are an asset to the city budget. By the law the government is compelled to support all unemployed workers—which now number more than 100,000—and it is very little more expensive to employ these men as caretakers for the "gardens" than it is to keep them in idleness through the payment of unemployment doles. Also, the taxes collected and the profits made from the florists who are attracted to the city by its increased beauty from the flowers probably more than pay for the expense.

TRIPLE ALLIANCE IN EAST IS SEEN

Russ, Japs Making Overtures for Favor

PEKING, May 26.—The predominant idea throughout the Chinese-Russian negotiations which have been conducted for months in Peking, has been the ultimate formation of an Oriental triple alliance for preservation of peace on the North Pacific.

The alliance, under this plan, would bring Russia, Japan and China into a combination that could successfully make the Northern Far East at any rate, forever Russian.

Probably no diplomatic conference has ever been conducted with definite interest by a greater number of nations than this one.

While Dr. C. T. Wang, graduate of Yale University, and Leon Karakhan have been negotiating the recognition matter, the Japanese minister, Nomura, has also been negotiating with Karakhan, in regard to recognition and a formal conference.

That the Japanese have been advised of the Chinese proposals to Russia is known. Any arrangement that China makes with Russia concerning the Chinese Eastern or rights in Manchuria, must satisfy the Japanese, whose South Manchuria railroad, once a part of the Chinese Eastern, is still the southern outlet for the old Russian road.

The Japanese openly admit, as do the Russians, that there must be a complete and lasting understanding between these three countries.

The remaining element in Japan's friendly relations with the Western Powers, China fears nothing. She has been captured and mauled but in the long run of years has always come off with credit. Just now, members of the official class say openly, China is tired of treaties. Most of them were forcibly imposed.

One official told the United Press without any all China can soon get rid of the foreign stranglehold. England will not intervene in China alone, France can not afford to, America and Japan won't, unless forced by sentiment.

If Japan breaks away from the magnet of the West, sufficiently to join in an alliance that will say to the West, "Hands off the East," China will reach her goal. Every day the power of the foreigner is weakening. The Chinese know it and every Legation knows it. Now the Chinese is really in quite a hurry. He wants to rush the foreigner on his way and looks to Russian support. He believes that mere moral support will be enough.

The deadlock is merely temporary. Full agreement is necessary and as a member of the Chinese Foreign Office said, "If anything is really necessary, China will do it."

COLORADO HAS REAL CAVE MAN

Once Negro Slave Was In Gold Rush

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., May 26.—Once a slave, then a prospector in cotton fields of the South and later a prospector for gold in the world-famous Cripple Creek field, Dave Marsh, 86, lays claim to the title of the world's real "cave man."

The last 25 of his four score and six years have been spent in a cave near this city.

Marsh was born in North Carolina, was sold as a child to a master at Atlanta, Ga., and subsequently worked for five owners in Mississippi. At Jackson, Miss., he read in the papers that slaves had been freed.

For some years after gaining freedom he worked in the cotton and corn fields about Little Rock, Ark., and throughout Oklahoma. Then he got "gold fever" and came west.

When the excitement subsided he located his cave, a chamber 30 feet long and too low to permit his standing erect. With a 3-foot entrance, and more in.

There is no ventilation, no stove for heat, no outlet for smoke, no lights and no room for a bed. An ordinary mortal would be driven out within a few minutes by asphyxiation. He survives, however, and is in excellent health, despite his 86 years.

To him the place is home, and his accommodations are entirely satisfactory. County commissioners built him a hut near the cave some years ago, but he refused to move into the new quarters.

Not that cave life is eventless. Only last year when Marsh started for the open air one morning he found himself trapped by one of the heaviest snows in the district's history. Undaunted, he seized a board, shoveled snow and earth for an hour, and finally emerged into daylight. That same morning the sheriff and a rescue party, thinking the "old negro" might be snowed in set out to investigate. They found that he had dug himself out only to wander onto a snowbank covering a hole 30 feet deep. He was found at the bottom.

Demand for Light Crust Flour Grows

Light Crust Flour, for years one of the south's "leading brands" of flour, is manufactured under the most sanitary and scientific conditions, according to C. H. Barnes, local distributor. It is made by the Barrows Mill and Elevator company of Fort Worth, and the capacity of the plant is between 45,000 and 60,000 barrels daily. Every sack is made just alike, thus insuring clients of uniformity.

Practically all of Port Arthur's grocers handle Light Crust, says Mr. Barnes, and the total output in Port Arthur alone is about 5,000 barrels per year or one car weekly. The consumption of this product has shown a steady increase ever since the bakery has been in Port Arthur, according to Mr. Barnes.

Colored oval sippers are introduced for spring wear. These come in red, green, orange and yellow, and are worn mostly for evening wear.

Red and Yellow Will Be This Summer's Most Popular Tints

And Fad Even Extends To Lingerie, With Latest
Hosiery Shade a Pinkish
Yellow

"Red and yellow means 'catch a fellow.'"
So the children's saying goes:
And if there's any truth in this,
girls,
We'll have just loads and loads of fellows.

NEW YORK, May 26.—Red and yellow are the most conspicuous colors of the season. "Every window on Fifth avenue is displaying these colors and every woman who sees has a bit of red or yellow or a mixture of the two colors adorning her spring costume."

The largest department store on Fifth avenue has every window displaying red costumes, which vary from sport frocks, afternoon gowns, evening gowns, hats, etc., to bathing suits and accessories. There is not one other color in their windows, just one mass of flaming red. A block further up the avenue we find another shop with every window sponsoring yellow: yellow undergarments, yellow evening frocks, yellow shoes, gloves, stockings—everything yellow!

Each spring some new shade is introduced to become the rage. This spring, however, we find ourselves selling our tastes on plain yellow or red.

Of course, by this time, almost everyone owns a scarf consisting of red or yellow tones, so we will not discuss the scarf. Among the accessories which accompany these scarves, however, are envelope-shaped handbags of red or yellow which add chic to the spring tailleur.

As to evening gowns nothing newer than the frock of chiffon with slender bodice and full ruffled or flounced skirt, made in scarlet or a lovely shade of yellow. These are very simple to make at home, although they cost as much in the shops as the more ornate beaded gowns.

Outrigger banding comes in the most beautiful shades of red and yellow and trims many of our latest evening frocks.

Summery hats of horsehair will be popular as warm weather advances. Shops are showing these in yellow horsehair with wide brims and the single flower trimming at one side of the brim. If one is careful not to choose too deep a yellow, a hat of this sort can be worn with almost any frock, regardless of its color.

Yellow lingerie is becoming quite as popular as flesh or pink lingerie this spring. Vests, step-ins, costume slips, brassieres and hosiery are shown in this shade. Ecru lace makes an attractive finish for the yellow undergarment, although many simpler garments use lavender hemstitching as a finish.

As we have mentioned before, the latest hosiery shade is a pinkish yellow tone rather than the nude one. Gloves, likewise, follow the yellowish tones when worn with yellow-toned hosiery. Yellow handkerchiefs also adhere to the summer color vogue.

Linen and organza frocks of yellow are shown in every shop in New York. Even yellow and white-checked gingham is being stressed for summer wear. Except for evening wear the red frock is not as conspicuous as the yellow one, as red is rather a trying color to wear, being most becoming on very dark brunettes or ash blondes.

Yellow, on the other hand, can be worn by almost everyone. The golden blond is more lovely in yellowish or golden tones than in any other color. The brunettes usually wear yellow beautifully and the titian-haired woman is often painted by the artists surrounded by a yellow background.

The yellow person is the only one who finds yellow unbecoming, but in these days of cosmetics there are few ash-blond women, indeed.

NUDE BATHING NOW FAVORED

Music to Feature
Women's Club Meet

LOS ANGELES, May 26.—Music hath its charms and also a meaning, according to the musical program arranged for the seventeenth biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, here, June 3 to 13.

Mrs. Max Oberndorfer, chairman of the division of music, has arranged for the appearance here on the evening of June 10 of Raymond Koch, pianist and composer.

James Gordon, concert master of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, will make a special trip here to play at one of the opening musical evenings.

On the Fine Arts program, a group of modern American compositions will be played by Amy Neill, an American violinist who has created a sensation in European musical centers.

Grabrowski, the noted pianist, will also play during the convention, rounding out a musical program of talented artists.

LONDON, May 26.—A campaign to popularize naked sun bathing in England this summer has been started by Sir Herbert Barker, a noted manipulative surgeon.

He has launched a Sunlight League, headed by the Duke of Sutherland, to persuade the somewhat straitlaced summer resorts to set aside secluded portions of their beaches in which men and women—discreetly segregated—may "sun bathe."

"Questions of modesty," says Sir Herbert Barker, "should be firmly set aside. Nothing is better established than the beneficial effects of complete exposure to sunlight. It would sweep away many evidences of influenza and improve greatly the general health of the people."

There are many ideal spots on our south coast, which would be well suited for curative bathing, keeping the sexes segregated.

"Margate and Ramsgate should be ashamed of themselves for insisting upon two-piece costumes. Nakedness does not cause immorality, whereas draperies frequently suggest it."

"As for mixed bathing, no doubt arguments must be worn, but they should be thin swimsuits, not silk or woollens which keep out the sunlight."

"I am satisfied that people must go back to sunlight for health."

American Sailors Good Amateurs Against British Professionals, Survey Shows

MEN, NOT SHIPS IS BIG FACTOR

Figures Show U. S. Navy To Be Shipping

By CHARLES F. STEWART
News Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, May 30.—In comparing the world powers' sea strength, says a recent navy bulletin, "there is a popular tendency to set down so many ships, so many guns, so much material for the totals, and imagine the problem solved."

"The result is far from the truth," Besides the items of ships, guns and materials, there are many other considerations to be taken into account. Personnel is one of the most important.

"Men, not ships, fight," pointed out Malaga, one of America's greatest naval authorities.

"Good men in poor ships," he adds, "invariably have triumphed over poor men in good ships."

Second to Britain
In her regular naval establishment, America has 777 officers and 88,000 men; Great Britain, 871 officers and 91,287 men; Japan, 7,000 officers and 78,274 men; France, 2,914 officers and 57,741 men; Italy, 2,347 officers and 42,501 men.

Reserve
America has 4,256 officers and 18,179 men; Great Britain, 2,779 officers and 42,558 men, not including 7,000 retired officers of all ages, nor 18,768 pensioners, of the rank and file, under 55 years old, who are subject to call in emergency; Japan, 3,715 officers and 27,150 men; France, 2,376 officers and 46,700 men; Italy, with 4,513 reserve officers, has no organized reserve of the rank and file, but all men who have served in the navy are subject to call.

Personnel are not limited by treaty, but on the "50,000-ton limit" basis, America is 4715 officers and 11,175 men short of her complement; Great Britain, 4,014 officers and 37,287 men; France, 4,900 officers and 20,747 men; Italy, 2,657 officers and 20,747 men; allowance for the veterans ship might call to the colors, 787 men.

Three in Running
Japan is up to her limit. Further, her relatively large number of officers in active service, in comparison with the number of her men, gives her a disproportionate skeleton strength.

In the matter of quality, naval officers seem generally to agree that the best is between America, Great Britain and Japan.

This isn't meant as a reflection on the fighting prowess or intelligence of the French or Italians, but simply that these two nationalities do not appear, in the main, to be natural sailors, as the others are.

As raw material, there are no dissenters from the opinion that Americans are the best in the world, but unfortunately few of them, below commissioned rank, take to the navy as a life career. Those who do not develop into sea dogs of merle improve ship to heart, hard to say.

But throughout the bulk of the rank and file, in comparison with the British, for example, there's some what the difference which exists in all sailings between the top-notch amateur and the tried professional—the latter perhaps a little lacking in pep, but making up for it in long experience.

The British, with officers as good as any to be found on earth, do not average, as to the rank and file, quite as highly as the Americans from the standpoint of education and brains—not that they're mentally deficient, but they haven't the American's intense alertness and speed. To offset this, they're mostly older hands.

Japs Lack Initiative
The Japanese, excelled by none as sailors and fanatical in their bravery, are wanting in initiative—both officers and men. American experts count this distinctly in estimating Japan's naval strength. Illustratively, they mention the Japanese sea forces' behavior at the time of the recent earthquake.

This story hasn't generally been told. There have been hints, indeed, that the fleet was dilatory in rendering aid to the sufferers on shore. But it is true that, with the people of Tokyo and Yokohama in unbelievable straits for lack of such assistance as they might have given, the Japanese fleet commander kept his ships lying idle offshore, incapable of action except under orders from his admiralty which was too badly disorganized by the disaster to issue any orders at all.

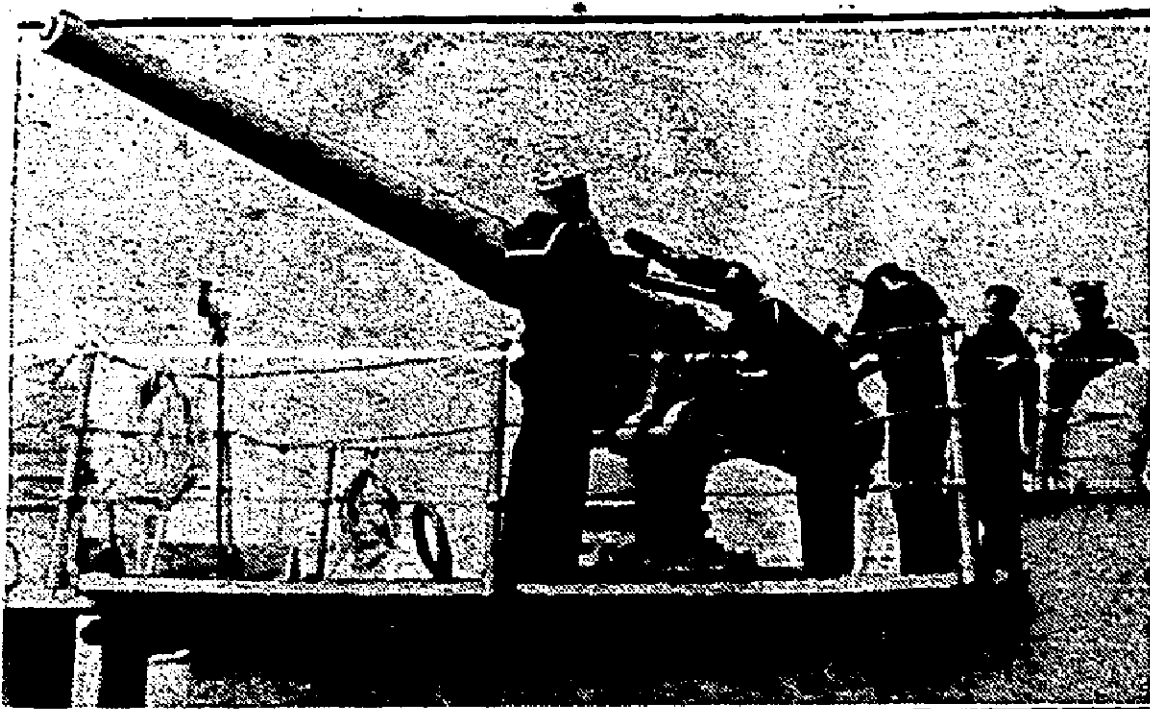

A Dwindling Navy
Out of the 86,000 men in the present establishment the terms of 37,850 will end this year. There will be some reenlistments, but it is estimated that the total of new men will be 23,350. Besides, of the 86,000 men, 67,000 are first-termers.

The British enlistment term is 12 years, and there are more than 30,000 men who have served more than a decade. Most of them enlist again and again. Also there is an enormous merchant reserve. America has almost none.

Japanese ships are manned partly on a voluntary and partly on a conscription basis. The enlistment term is 12 years, half on active service and half in the reserve. Conscription is for four years' active service, three years in the first and four years in the second reserve.

TEXAS FLOUR MILL GROWS

Thousands of Barrels Sent To New York Annually

The Texas Star Flour Mills of Galveston, whose product is distributed here by the Port Arthur Grain Co., boasts of one of the most modern and up-to-date flour mills in the world. The mill employs a force of approximately 100 men with wages totalling $40,000 a month. The daily capacity of the plant is 50,000 barrels. The process of making wheat into flour is interesting. It really is subjected to about 100 processes in all before the finished products, bran, four, shorts, etc., reach the packers. Every process is carefully supervised and co-ordinated so that the stream of grain may be transformed into pure food products. Upon arrival at the mills the wheat is inspected and sent to the laboratories for tests and chemical analysis. The results of the analysis determines which particular bin the wheat is unloaded from. From the elevator the wheat is sent to the mills where it is first cleaned and then weighed in giant hoppers and then sent to the rollers. The first rolling crushes the grain in preparation for the further and final cleaning process by which every foreign matter is removed. The wheat next goes through the refining process and is divided into various grades after the bran and shorts have first been removed and sent to other respective packing devices.

The laboratory is one of the best equipped in the state. In it every day are baked many loaves of bread to be sure that the quality is kept up to the standard required by the mill.

Flour from the Texas Star Flour Mills is sent to all parts of the world and in New York, in competition with eastern flour mills, it commands a higher price because of its purity and whiteness.

Over 200,000 barrels are sent annually to New York for consumption in that city alone. Virtually all this trade has been built up within the past two years. Formerly only enough package stuff was shipped there to handle a portion of the immediate trade. Over 5,000 retail stores in New York handle the Galveston product and it is safe to say that it is being used by one million homes in Greater New York alone.

BRICKLAYER A TENOR

LONDON, May 30.—Poor old Cugat Sam has been blamed ever since the war for being a "tenor" in his house-building. The complaint went on until the other day, when one of the "lost" bricklayers was found to be a member of a prominent English opera company. He is Benjamin Sewell, a Hall tenor, who studied music in his spare time and finally decided to give up the bricklaying and devote himself to the opera. He appears in the chorus.

CHARITY CHILDREN AT ST. PAUL'S

Twins on a holy Thursday, their innocent faces clean.

The children walking two and two, in red and blue and green;
Cory-banded bundles walked before, with wands as white as snow,
Till into the high dome of Paul's they like Thames' waters flow.

Oh, what a multitude they seemed, those flowers of London town.

Seated in companies they sat, with radiance all their own;

The hush of multitudes was there, but multitudes of lambs,

Thousands of little boys and girls, raising their innocent hands.

Now like a mighty wind they rose to heaven the voice of song,

Or like harmonious thunderings the seats of heaven among;

Beneath them sat the aged men, wise guardians of the poor.

Then cherish pity, lest you drive an angel from your door.

Thrift Essays Written for First National Bank by Pupils of Port Arthur Public Schools

Thrift is power. There is a great joy in the game of thrift. It does not mean going without, it means securing what one wants most. Thrift is prosperity. In the home let us first learn the meaning of the great word thrift. There cannot be saving until there is earning first. There is no thrift practiced in spending. Thrift's meaning is increase of wealth, good management and many other useful things. Thrift applies to many things except wealth and good management. You may be thrifty in work, when Mother don't have to tell you to do one thing a dozen times. "Get to work and do." Thrift is a wonderful meaning. Economy is thrift. It increases your mind. It means to save. Thrift means not to cheat yourself or others. For instance John W. Gates was one of America's thriftiest men. There is three ways in practicing thrift. In earning, in spending and in saving. What I mean in spending is, if you invest it in the right way.

Yours truly
ROSALIE KALLWERT,

Franklin School.

In thrift as in other things young people must be instructed for both the man who piles up his thousands and the man who wantonly wastes his dollars are only creatures of habits.

Those who mean to succeed must have and keep the habit of thrift.

The boy or girl who when fifteen years old knows how to make their clothes last as long as possible who waste neither their play time or their study time, who already has a bank account, however small, who take sensible care of their health, is sure to succeed. He may not make a fortune in dollars and cents but will be a independent and a credit to the community in which he lives.

Some people overlook the simple joys and the simple habits, not realizing that the world's treasures are obtained only by those who have first mastered the art of simple living. Now let us practice thrift and build security for success.

To many people the word thrift suggests only the saving of money, and those who are not earners feel that it is not for them to make "thrift" their motto. But the mother in the home who so plans her meals that her family may get the maximum of nourishment and without any waste, is as truly thrifty as the woman who works for wages and each month adds her "bank account." So, also the boy or girl who wastes no opportunities and guards carefully the health of the body is forming the habit of thrift that will mean happiness and prosperity in the future. Training for life-work means preventing boys and girls from wasting their lives. But even a well trained body and brain may lead a boy to failure if he has not also learned how to spend wisely and how to save.

The slogan of this country in the future must be "conservation of all resources," but not until each grammar school graduate knows how to save and practice true thrift will the highest prosperity of the country be assured.

Many boys and girls think it is enough if they save a little money. It seems to them foolish to put an small amount as three dollars in the bank. But it is safer there than anywhere else, for there it cannot be stolen or destroyed by fire for it is not idle.

Business men will never let a single dollar be idle. Every cent of their money is either in the bank, drawing interest, or invested so that it earns something every year.

If wealthy men cannot afford to let a single dollar remain unused, surely those who only have a few dollars need to make them work even harder.

It never occurs to most people that their future success may depend on whether or not they have a bank account.

HENRY RILEY,

Thrift—What is it? It is a habit which has to be learned if a person expects to go through the world with success. Thrift is the foundation stone to success. If today we had more thrift there would be less depending on the Red Cross and other charitable institutions. To be thrifty means economical management. By this we mean to live on a more economical plan.

A thrifty person does not wait until he is grown to begin to save, but when he is a child saves his money, that is, his pennies, and in that way forms a habit of saving and keeps it up through life. An old saying is, "A penny saved is a penny made," and one cannot know how pennies count up until you save them. Do not spend your money foolishly but buy only what is necessary and try to save on them. When you buy do not waste it. Some countries live on less than what food that goes into the garbage cans of the Americans. They know what thrift is. To be thrifty is not to be "stingy" or to deprive anyone of their comforts.

On paydays everyone should put as much money as possible in the bank and almost before you realize it you will have a bank account for "a rainy day" to build you a home or any other good purpose. Save now. Save while you can for if you do not start now you never will. Start your account with the First National Bank of Port Arthur today.

OIL COMES TO FOUR WIDOWS

Now They're Desert Calico
For Silks

WINFIELD, Kan., May 30.—The four widows of Hainbow Bend have discarded the hoe and calico. "Widow's oil field" has gushed; the widows have been made wealthy overnight and now they're going to rest and wear silks.

On the early 70s four families, the Johnsons, the Glasgows, the Haskett and the Westmans braved dangers of frontier and in covered wagons came to Kansas to homestead.

Hardships followed. Indians were troublesome and occasionally the Arkansas river went on a rampage and took the combined efforts of the four families to save their belongings.

Despite repeated reverses the clans expanded their estates and acquired more land, horses and cows. Children were born and the parents grew to be influential.

Then fate decreed the four women should be widowed. Unhappily, they assumed supervision of the estates—now comprising a block of more than 1,000 acres—and worked on. They took in the flocks, reared hog pens and reared their offspring.

Nat long ago a couple of "wildcat" oil men dropped in. Evidence of oil in the Arkansas river bottoms had been found. The widows drove bargains and drilling commenced.

The Messiares Johnson, Glasgow and Westman combined their land in one block. Soon two streams of "black gold" were gushing. Then Mrs. Haskett obtained $50,000 for a lease on her land.

Now they're all drawing royalties. Hainbow Bend is being put on the map.

FILIPINOS NOT CAPABLE, SAYS

Self Government Yet Long Way Off, Says Judge

PORTLAND, Ore., May 30.—Independence for the Philippine Islands is a long way off "if the right thing is done," according to United States Judge Charles A. Johns.

Judge Johns, whose court is in the Philippines, is spending some weeks in his native state, Oregon, before going to Cleveland as a Philippine delegate to the national convention.

"He indicated he would oppose any move to incorporate a Philippine independence plank in the Republican platform."

"The Filipinos are not ready for self-government," he said. "They are not educated to it and domestic strife is sure to follow independence, if granted at an early date."

Less than two percent of the 32,000,000 inhabitants take a newspaper and outside of Manila, less than 5 percent read the papers, he said.

Every island, he pointed out, has its own dialect and belongs to a people somewhat different from the others.

The American public schools are making headway, however, and with the growth of education the coming generations will gain the knowledge and poise necessary to handle their own affairs in his opinion.

Judge Johns contends that it has been a most unfortunate thing that a definite policy has not been shaped by the American government in dealing with the Philippines.

The unsettled conditions growing out of the uncertainty now existing in keeping control out of the country, causing those who do invest to do so in such a way that they can withdraw at a moment's notice and is in every way hampered.

CHASING DEVILS IS KOREAN SPORT

If You're Sick, Needles
Drive Them Out

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—Chasing devils is a sport not yet formally recognized in America, but in far-off Korea the natives are kept busy in this pursuit. At least this is the story brought here by Dr. Archibald Campbell, who for the past seven years, has lived in Korea. He declares the devil in that country is a very important person.

If a man is sick, the natives believe he has a devil in him, and they stick needles into him to chase the devil out. If a house has sickness in it, the natives gather round and yell and screech to drive the devil out.

There are all sorts of signs throughout the country supposed to keep the devils away from human habitation. At all cross-roads leading to the villages there are hideous signs to scare away the devils of disease which would flock into the towns.

In spite of these strange customs, Dr. Campbell states, many of the natives are rapidly becoming modernized.

"The fathers and the mothers live and think as they did 4,000 years ago," the missionary said. "They make little effort to understand the present, where the rising generation makes little attempt to understand the past. The youth of Korea is progressive."

"The treatment of cholera," Dr. Campbell illustrates the status of the older generation. They firmly believe the disease is caused by rats in the body and they feed the sufferer dog meat, so the dog will drive the rats away and cure the body."

MANY JOLE IN JAPAN
GENEVA, May 30.—Japan has filed with the International Labor Bureau, detailed information on the state of unemployment that has been caused there by the earthquake of last year. The statement places at 33,000 the number of factories that were destroyed and which threw out of employment over 100,000 workmen.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, May 29.—Sixty-five years old, 44 years of fighting, a maker of presidents—and today still playing the same game, the game he has loved and followed for so many years.

General Herbert Jeffries is back in the country to which he came as a boy to instruct the soldiers of the country in military tactics.

He left a good place in a bank in Salvador to answer the call of his old companion in arms, General Ferrera.

He gave up the comforts of civilization to come back to the place at the head of the faithful Indians who followed him in many campaigns in the past.

To eat beans and tortillas; to sleep on the ground; to face sun, rain and storm.

"Why did I come? Because I am of that race that has discovered the fur corners of the world, whose one desire is to see what lies just beyond the horizon. To see strange people and stranger countries."

"The heritage of the Anglo-Saxon race is the wanderlust—and it has given them dominion in all parts of the world."

"And I came too, because of friendship—friendship for General Ferrera, one of the most valiant and honest men that I ever have met."

"It was not hope for financial gain that brought me."

"I have plenty for my remaining years, and for my son."

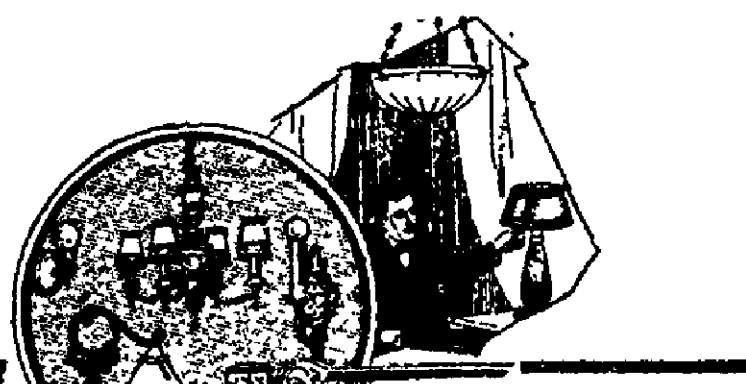

"But don't think, boy, that I want my son to be a soldier."

NEBRASKA HAS WHISKY WELL!

Old Stuff Rests in Coolness
Of Spring

HASTINGS, Neb., May 30.—Deep in the cool waters of an old well here is a barrel of real ante-Volsteadian whiskey—so say old residents who recall that the barrel was thrown into the well during the frontier days, when Indians were attacking Spring ranch.

A. J. Orendorff, Benedict, Kan., rancher for the whiskey barrel episode. It happened during one of the last raids of the Sioux Indians upon the lonely outpost at Spring ranch, Orendorff said. Fearing an attack, James Painter, owner of the ranch, dispatched a message to Fort Kearney, asking that soldiers be sent to help resist the Indians. Before aid could arrive, the attack started.

As the Sioux started circling around the ranch house, a "prairie schooner" pulled up at the back. In the wagon was a barrel of whiskey.

Fearing that the threatened attack would be impossible to stop should the Indians get the whiskey, Painter and other men of the ranch dumped the barrel into the larger well there.

After the attack had been repulsed, no one bothered about the whiskey. It was common then.

Questioning of all owners of the ranch since that time revealed that the well had never been robbed of its relic.

BOUNDARY COVERED BY SAND, IS CLAIM

EL PASO, May 30.—International boundary marks have been covered by sandstorms in many places along the border, J. Harvie Cloosman, boundary commission secretary, has been informed.

An airplane carrying Randolph E. Fickburn, of the commission, has left here for an inspection of the border between El Paso and Nogales, where the monuments are reported covered.

Additional observations on the topographical features will be made.

"What the world needs is peace. And as I grow older, I see more and more clearly that need."

"The day will come, and it is not far off, when all will realize and act on that need."

General Jeffries was born in Virginia of an old family which settled there in the 17th century.

He is the original of the Captain Machin of Richard Harding Davis. He has commanded armies in Colombia, Panama, Honduras, Costa Rica and Salvador.

He has led his troops against Nicaragua and Guatemala.

He was one of the leaders of the Panamanian revolt against Colombia that gave to the United States the Panama Canal.

He has made and helped unmake presidents throughout Central America.

His life has been one round of adventure and excitement.

Witness, the hill that dominates Tegucigalpa, the capital of Honduras, and which has proved the stumbling block of the present revolutionists.

Stripping his Indians to the skin, and armed only with their machetes, he led them in the darkness of the night up the steep sides of Picacho, one hand outstretched, the other gripping the machete, ready to strike.

Should the outstretched hand touch bare flesh, the man was safe. But should it meet cloth, the machete swung, and another enemy had fallen.

Thus he ended a siege that lasted 20 days.

SEEKS CUT IN RATES ON SHEEP

VALDE, Texas, May 30.—A resolution looking toward a reduction of freight rates on sheep, lambs and goats and the laying of plans for the annual convention to be held in San Angelo on June 25-26, were the features of the quarterly meeting of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' association, held at Valde recently.

Plans were also made at the quarterly meeting for the show sale to be held during the San Angelo fair in October.

Infant mortality has decreased nearly 50 per cent in the last quarter century.

JAPS TO SEND 200 TO BRAZIL

Colonization Scheme Plan
Of Paper

OSAKA, Japan, May 30.—The Osaka Mainichi Publishing company has announced a plan of providing traveling expenses to 200 farmers wishing to emigrate to Brazil. The enterprise is undertaken in commemoration of the Imperial marriage between H. I. H. the crown prince and princess.

The new enterprise is to encourage emigration of farmers to Brazil. Announcing the plan on April 12, the "Mainichi" editorially remarked: "That Japan is over-populated and has no other way to meet the question than by sending her nationals into foreign soil will be admitted. If, therefore, there be any country which is short of population, our country should not hesitate to promote mutual benefit by sending her sons to such a country, if the situation allows."

The Brazilian republic, to which the "Mainichi" is proposing to send farming families, has a vast area of more than 3,275,000 square miles with boundless natural resources, but its population is only 30,000,000 souls. The Brazilian government is in need of a greater population to develop the industry of the country and has been importing laborers from outside countries.

"Our aim in sending farmers to Brazil, however, is not purely economic. We believe that the proposed plan will bring about a harmonization of the civilizations of the east and the west, which is denied in America and Australia. The charge that Japan is intending to carry out her millennial foreign policy by sending her nationals into foreign countries is too senseless for refutation. We hope that the 200 representative farmers who shall cultivate the virgin soil across the Pacific will show the world how the Japanese can become harmonized and welcomed immigrants."

The selected applicants are to leave Kobe on May 20 on board the Canada Maru.

Workingmen Artists Paintings Are Shown

LONDON, May 30.—It's an open season for artists in London.

The art exhibition, ranging all the way from a Royal Academy collection to the sidewalk "masterpieces" in crayon.

The most novel display of all has just been opened at the Bethnal Green Museum in the East End. Its contents of paintings and drawings by members of a local institute attended by workingmen. The first students of the class, which began only a year ago, were a warehousman, a house decorator, three dockhands waiting for a ship, and a haddock smoker. The class meets twice weekly and now has 30 members.

Lord Balfour, Labor's Lord Chancellor, dropped in on the Bethnal Green display and praised it highly.

"And Now For Better Baking"

You are entitled to the best. Why not have it?

"Ambrosia Flour"

If you are not getting the proper results from your baking, perhaps it's an inferior brand of flour that you are using and therefore you cannot get the correct results. We suggest that you try "Ambrosia" for it's made of the very finest grades of wheat from the best wheat fields of the world. Nothing is left out of its milling process that goes to make a perfect flour. It is strictly a scientifically manufactured product—therefore every sack is uniformly the same.

Delicious Pies and Pastry

When you are desirous of cooking a real good pie—or any kind of pastry for that matter—use "AMBROSIA" flour, then you are sure of having success. The scientific way in which every sack of Ambrosia is made assures you of that much.

For Better Cake Baking

Nothing plays quite as an important part in the failure or success of good cake making as the flour which you use. If you have been baking cakes without the success you should have, perhaps it's your flour. Order a sack of Ambrosia next time and then see the difference.

Light Fluffy Hot Biscuits

Hubby likes hot biscuits—but you are afraid you will make a failure of them when you try to bake them—that is the way you feel? Then you should try "Ambrosia" flour next time and you'll see hubby's face smile with glee when he tastes the nice light fluffy ones you can make when using Ambrosia flour.

For All Your Baking

Ambrosia flour is the ideal flour for every baking requirement. Milled in a sunlit sanitary mill in the most scientific manner, from the most carefully selected and graded wheat from the golden fields of the great south and southwest! Only the very finest grain goes into the make-up of this super-fine all-purpose flour. Order it next time from your grocer.

Post Master General is to Start Night Mail Flying Across Continent on July 1

GIANT BEACONS TO LIGHT WAY

Transcontinental Route in Three Zones

By LARRY BOARDMAN
News Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The "dream" of the postal department—continuous transcontinental air mail service—is to become a reality July 1.

On that day postal service flyers will start gliding their planes in steady flight between New York and San Francisco.

An air mail pilot will take off from New York at noon, arriving in Chicago at sundown. There another pilot will take off with his cargo of mail in pursuit of the setting sun. When darkness falls, he will be guided by a line of beacons 1,000 miles long, between Chicago and Cheyenne, Wyo.

Coming into Cheyenne with the dawn, the second pilot will be relayed by a third who will wing over the rugged tops of the Rockies and Sierras and land by the shores of the Golden Gate before sunset.

Giant Beacons Light Way
At the same time, a relay of three pilots will be making the eastbound trip.

It is upon night flying—the flight between Chicago and Cheyenne—that the fate of transcontinental air mail service depends.

Realizing this, the postal department has established a lighted airway in the "darkness zone" calculated to make night flying scarcely more hazardous than flying by day.

Automatic acetylene lamps have been placed every three miles. Every 25 miles there is an emergency landing field, equipped with a revolving electric searchlight. At intervals of 50 miles are the regular landing fields, provided with revolving searchlight beacons of 500,000,000 candlepower, casting their beams 150 miles.

As an added precaution, bids for new planes with slower landing speeds have been called for. The department will furnish the motors—Liberty—while in other respects the planes must fulfill rigid departmental specifications.

Special Stamps
The personnel of the air mail flying force—all pilots and 127 mechanics—will not be augmented; new will be the number of planes now in use—varying from 75 to 80—be increased.

Special air mail stamps have been printed and distributed, while the route has been divided into three zones—between New York and Chicago, Chicago and San Francisco, and San Francisco and Los Angeles. A 16-cent stamp will carry a letter anywhere within one zone, a 24-cent stamp within two zones, and a 32-cent stamp within three zones.

Letters destined to cities off the air mail route will not require extra postage. They will be taken from the planes at the nearest point to their destination and sent on from there by train.

Special air mail post boxes are now under construction—to be painted red, white and blue, and marked with special collection. Auxiliary air mail service has been in operation for several years, but its purpose has been merely to advance the mails—picking up late mails in New York, for example, carrying them to Cleveland and placing them aboard a westbound train which left New York the day before.

The new system will lift air mail out of its auxiliary status and give it the standing of an independent service. It is to be tried for one year on an appropriation of $2,750,000. Then, if successful, it will be made a permanent institution.

EXTEND WATER MAINS AFTER RATE INCREASE

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, May 30.—Ample fire protection and extension of water mains to all those who wish to use water in the city are the provisions under which the San Antonio Water Supply company will be allowed an increase of seven and one-half per cent in rates, according to Mayor John W. Tobin. The final report of the city council to the water company is now being drafted.

The water company first demanded an increase of 25 per cent in rates with the proviso that a 10 per cent rebate would be given for prompt payment of bills. The company was also averse to signing a long-time contract. Recent negotiations have indicated that the company will agree to a five-year contract and a seven and one-half per cent increase.

TWO MARINES STOP S. P. SUNSET LIMITED

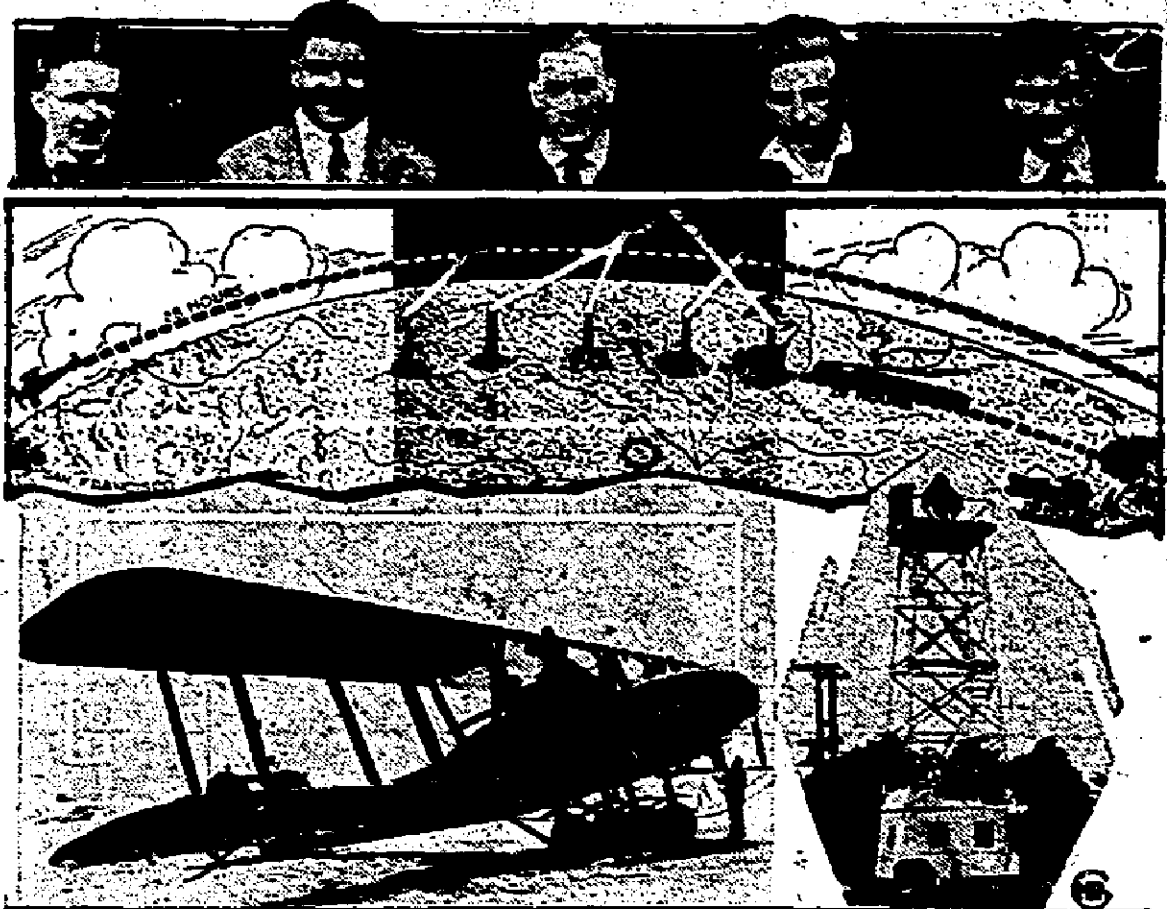

HOUSTON, Texas, May 30.—It remained for two United States Marines to turn a trick which Southern Pacific railroad officials declared the governor or the state could not do. Sergeant J. D. Walner wanted to leave the city. He was late. There was a story of "confidential orders." A clerk at the downtown ticket office rushed to the telephone. Walner's "buddy" commanded a passing automobile. He tumbled the money for the ticket as the car sped to the depot. At the rate a clerk handed him the ticket, the conductor signaled the engineer and the Sunset Limited started eastward—more than three miles in.

Walner was on leave and going to visit his uncle, a congressman, in Washington.

VICTORIA, Texas, May 30.—O. P. Fowler, local golf celebrity, claims to have made the longest drive on record.

Fowler modestly claims he drove a golf ball 30 miles.

A golf ball with Fowler's name on it was found on a raft in the Guadalupe river 30 miles from the links where it probably floated after a "sliced" shot.

"Maybe I didn't drive it the entire 30 miles," Fowler said, "but by and I did drive it out of sight."

SAN TONE TO PENSION ITS TEACHERS, IS PLAN

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, May 30.—Teachers in the public schools of Texas will be pensioned after a certain period of service if plans launched by the State Teachers' association through Mrs. Maude Gordon of Houston, are successful.

The movement was launched at a recent meeting of the association held here and following Mrs. Gordon's motion to establish a permanent pension fund, the resolution was placed in the hands of the retirement committee to be worked out in detail.

New License Law Diverts Weddings

LINCOLN, Neb., May 30.—Nebraska's marriage law, requiring 100 days' notice before granting a license, was blamed by county clerks for decreasing the number of licenses issued by 3,250 in the past year.

Similarly, Iowa and Kansas county clerks have reaped the harvest of clerical fees, and at Council Bluffs, Iowa, a tentative rift from Omaha, Kansas of Nebraskaans were married daily.

The new law went into effect in August, 1923. In Douglas county, where Omaha is situated, 1941 licenses were granted before August and only 384 after the law went into effect.

The ratio was much the same throughout the state. Couples hesitating on state lines dumped slightly more in loss of license from than those located farther from borders.

REFUSES TO BE A MILLIONAIRE

'Golden Rule' Nash Gives Away $600,000

By NEA Service
CINCINNATI, May 30.—"Golden Rule" Nash is happy.

He has escaped becoming a millionaire.

The $600,000 stock dividend which would have made him one has not passed through his hands.

He has divided it among the 4,000 employees in his garment factory here. So Arthur Nash is the way "Golden Rule" signs his checks—is not the only one in the plant who is going around with a broad smile these days.

"You made this money for me," he told his employees. "So it is yours." "I would be a robber—yes, a traitor worse than Judas Iscariot were I to accept a penny of it."

Nash's conscience had been troubled for weeks. The "golden rule" he had been following in his business was making him rich.

He had started out in a small way. Now, after a few years, it was necessary for him to seek larger quarters. His business already had outgrown two factory buildings.

"Golden Rule" was worried. At the rate money was coming in, he would be a millionaire. And a million dollars, he argued, was too much for any man to have.

The owner of the million, he reasoned, had not created it all himself. Therefore it morally did not belong to him.

35-Hour Week
But what was he going to do with it? To whom would he give it?

He inaugurated a 35-hour week in his plant—five days of seven hours each. That gave his employees—many of them widows—a chance to be with their children on Saturdays. He readjusted wages, so there would be no loss by reason of the shorter week.

But still the money came in. The folks in the plant worked better than ever.

Nash, in desperation of how to escape great wealth, finally wrote an open letter to the Christian people of America. He had it printed in 30 religious publications.

Answers began rolling in at the rate of 100 a day. Most writers wanted something for themselves, or for financing pet hobbies.

"They wanted me to steal this money from those to whom it belonged and give it to them," says

HAPPY

ARTHUR NASH

Nash. Then he hit upon the answer himself.

He called his employees together, addressing them as "Friends and Fellow Workers."

30 Per Cent Dividend
He announced the 100 per cent dividend. All the employees own stock in the company. Each would share in the dividend. But what of his own share?

"If I personally appropriate the part of our joint production that accumulated in profits," he told them, "I am stealing from you. As far as the law is concerned, of course, I am doing it legitimately."

"But if I must be a thief, I prefer to be one of the gunman type. I shall not even consider taking this dividend."

"I have taken in the past only what was apportioned to me because those in whom I had great faith advised me it seemed to be the only logical working out of the problem."

"This time however, I am not going to accept a cent of it. It is yours."

"And I hope that within a year or two you will own the business jointly with me."
